PRESIDENT FAURE'S PERIL

An Attempt Was Made Yesterday to Assassinate Him.

BUT HE ESCAPED UNHARMED

Two Arrests of Suspects Have Been Made But It is Thought the Real Culprit Escaped in a Thicket Nearby.

THE BOMB A CLUMSY AFFAIR

J[illegible] 13.—An attempt was made to-day to assassinate M. Faure, President of the French Republic, while he was en route to Long Champs to witness the Grand Prix. While his carriage was passing a thicket near La Cascade restaurant, in the Bois De Bolonge, a bomb, which afterward was found to be a piece of tubing six inches long and two inches in diameter, with a thickness of half an inch, charged with powder and shot, exploded.

No one was injured by the explosion. A man in the crowd was arrested on suspicion, and he gave his name as Gallet and made only the briefest of replies to questions put to him by the police. Gallet said he had no occupation. The police are making a thorough search of his lodgings. He is believed to be insane, as he shouted loudly as the carriage passed along and attracted the attention of the crowd.

The police have also made another arrest in the person of a youth, but it is thought the actual culprit escaped in the crowd. The news of the attempt spread like wildfire through the city, and when M. Faure returned to the Elysee the streets along the route where it was known he would drive, were crowded with people who cheered him vociferously.

It was at first reported that the would-be assassin was a young man about 25, who stood in the crowd 100 yards or more from the race course and discharged a pistol at M. Faure as he drove up to the entrance, and there was a subsequent report that both pistol and bomb were used. But the police now believe that the supposed pistol shot was merely the noise of the bomb.

The bomb was a clumsily made affair, to which a piece of fuse was attached, and the fuse was probably lighted by a paper fixed in the end of a stick as soon as the head of the procession came into view. The presumption is that at the moment the fuse was lighted the culprit fled, and in any case the bomb could not have done much harm.

In the thicket, where the police found the remnants of the bomb, they found also a pistol upon which were engraved the words "Mort A. Felix Faure," and the names Alsace-Lorraine and Cologne. Near the pistol was a small dagger.

The correspondent of the Associated Press had an interview with an official who was riding with M. Faure. The official said :

"When the report was heard a dense cloud of smoke rose from the thicket and there was consternation until it was found that no one had been injured. The police sprang forward, but found the thicket deserted. When the crowd saw one of the policemen holding the bomb they jumped to the conclusion that he was the purpetrator of the outrage and handled him roughly, clubbing him with heavy walking sticks and umbrellas until his comrades rescued him, badly bruised and covered with blood.

"The President's cortege then proceeded to the race course."

The Other Man Didn't Survive.

The grenadiers of the famous "Old Guard" will never be forgotten in France as long as the memory of brave men shall live in the national heart. But some of them, at least, were as bright as they were brave, as the following trustworthy anecdote bears witness :

One fine morning, after peace had been concluded between France and Russia, the two emperors, Napoleon and Alexandria, were taking a short walk, arm in arm, around the palace park at Erfurt. As they approached the sentinel who stood at the foot of the grand staircase the man, who was a grenadier of the guard, presented arms. The emperor of France turned, and pointing with pride to a great scar that devided the grenadier's face, said :

"What do you think, my brother, of soldiers who can survive such wounds as that ?"

"And you," answered Alexander "what do you think of soldiers who can inflict them ?"

Without stirring an inch from his position, or changing the expression of his face in the least, the stern old grenadier himself replied gravely :

"The man who did it is dead."—Youth's Companion.

Razors and Knives Flew Out.

COLUMBIA, S. C., June 11.—Deputy Sheriff Durant, of Georgetown, has gone to Waverly, a place on the coast fifteen miles by water, where he will summon a posse to arrest a score of negroes, charged with murder. The story of the crime, reported to the Sheriff, is that at a camp-meeting the preacher scathingly denounced Wade Jackson, one of his parishioners for immortality. Jackson immediately went to the pulpit and demanded an apology.

The pastor was of the fighting kind, and while the congregation looked on, he gave Jackson a sound thrashing. The pastor resumed his exortation, and Jackson retired, but soon returned with a hatchet and made a dash for the preacher, but a dozen razors and knives were uplifted. The male congregation fell upon Jackson, encouraged by the women, and he was literally cut into strips, and horribly mutulated. Trouble is apprehended in arresting his slayers.

Wintersteen Jury Disagrees.

BLOOMSBURG, Pa., June 13.—At 10:25 o'clock last night the jury in the Wintersteen dynamite conspiracy case came into court and declared they were unable to agree and asked to be discharged. They had been out thirty-four hours and the ballot every half hour was either eight for acquittal and four for conviction, or nine for acquittal and three for conviction. The case will now have to be retried within the next two terms of court, or it will go by default.

A Centre County Lady's Success.

Mrs. Grace E. Dutton, a graduate of Pennsylvania State Normal School and a graduate of Mrs. L. L. Rorer's Philadelphia School of Domestic Economy, has been appointed instructor in cooking and sewing. She has been a teacher many years and comes highly recommended. As she has resided in Pasadena three years she is well known to many people here.—Pasadena (Cal.) News.

Mrs. Dutton is a native of this county, a daughter of Col. Dunham, and a former pupil in Bellefonte's public schools, William Heinle, Esq., being one of her teachers. The salary she receives in her new position is $800 per year of nine months. The name of the institute in which she has been selected to teach is "Throop Institute."

A NEW GOSPEL TENT.

Young Men's Christian Association Hold the First Service.

A SUMMER SERVICE CAMPAIGN

Rev. Dr. Charles Wood, a Noted Divine, Well and Favorably Known in This Place, at the Dedication.

A VERY IMPRESSIVE MEETING

Rev. Charles Wood, well known in this town and a son-in-law of Mrs. Wistar Morris, of Alleghany street, preached last Sunday in the big Gospel tent at the corner of Twenty-third and Walnut street, Philadelphia, on the occasion of the dedication of the structure to the service of God and His holy religion. The first services were under the auspices of the Y. M. C. A. of Philadelphia.

The tent is a large affair, nearly a hundred feet in diameter. A substantial floor has been laid, and the chairs are so arranged that a thousand people can be comfortably seated. Electric lights have been put in and every possible arrangement has been made for a successful carrying out of the projected campaign. In previous years the Second Presbyterian church has been closed from about the second week in June until after the second week in September, and as most of the congregation are out of the city during that period, the work of the church has been really suspended. Believing that the summer time offers a good opportunity for bringing the church to the thousands of people in the neighborhood who are not regularly connected with any religious organization, this plan has been decided upon, and the Y. M. C. A. has been invited to co-operate.

The services last Sunday were interesting from start to finish. The orchestra played while the tent was filling, the quartette sang several selections and a precentor led the congregational singing. The Scriptures were read by Rev. Mr. McCurdy, assistant pastor of the Second Presbyterian Church, and prayer was offered by Dr. Graff, president of the Board of Trustees of the Y. M. C. A., of Philadelphia. The sermon was preached by Rev. Dr. Charles Wood.

The subject of the discourse was "A Religion for the Young" In the course of his remarks Mr. Wood said :

"The young man needs a religion that will keep him young. He may not need theology, the science of religion—some of us have had enough of that—but he needs a religion that will keep him young and active. Men without religion grow old fast. We may all of us get rheumatism in the knees or in the knuckles, but there is no need of our getting it in our hearts.

"A man who hasn't washed himself for a month thinks he has no trouble to keep clean. It is only when we begin to cleanse ourselves that we find out how foul we are.

"The young man needs a religion that will bring him out of the dumps. What shall we do when we feel downhearted. Drink, says some one. Drinking will make us laugh, perhaps, for a while, but not the next morning. The laughter it causes is like the sparkle or the foam of the liquor itself—it soon grows stale. Nor does drinking make a man's wife and children laugh. The young man wants something to keep him straight, and if he is already in the mire he wants a religion that will throw him a rope and pull him to solid ground."

Dr. Wood then took up a comparison between the Christian religion and all others, and declared that the Christian religion was the only one that filled the bill of the young man's necessity. He deprecated too much talk about how bad we have been and how good we are now. He said he believed with Mr. Moody that if a man has not had grace enough to keep his temper and lead a decent life he had better not say much about it. "The Christian religion," he said, "helps a man to wipe out the past and gives him courage for the future."

On Their Wedding Tour.

Mr. Felix Bigleman and Miss Rosalie Anna Parks, both of East Brady, Clarion county, were united in marriage at the above named place, Wednesday evening, June 9th. On Saturday evening Mr. and Mrs. Bigleman arrived in Bellefonte on their wedding tour, and spent Sunday and part of to-day in our little city as the guests of his sister, Miss Amelia Bigleman, leaving for Driftwood this afternoon, where they will also visit friends, after which they will return to their home in East Brady.

This was their first visit to Bellefonte and yesterday, accompanied by his sister and Mr. John F. Anderson, Jr., they visited the principal points of interest in this vicinity, and expressed themselves as highly pleased with what they saw.

Mr. Bigleman is a steady and industrious young man and is a railroader, employed on the Allegheny Valley road between DuBois and East Brady. The bride is a pretty and accomplished young lady and one who will make a fitting helpmate through life.

Tried to Kill a Drowning Man.

BENGIES, Md., June 11.—But for the interference of onlookers a brutal murder would probably have been committed here last evening. David Nottinson, of Baltimore, with some companions, went fishing in a row boat belonging to Robert Cooney. When Cooney discovered this he rowed out in midstream and struck Nottinson in the mouth with his fist. The latter begged him to desist, but Cooney seized an oar by the blade and beat Nottinson unmercifully on the head and back, knocking him into the river and splintering the oar. When Nottinson, in a semi-conscious condition came to the surface, Cooney made for him and attempted to strike the drowning man with another oar. Two men in a boat near by came to Nottinson's aid and compelled Cooney to desist. The latter was arrested to-day and committed at Towson in default o $1,000 bail by Magistrate Pielert to await the action of the Grand Jury and the result of Nottinson's injuries. After the struggle was over a gold watch and chain which Nottinson wore were missing. Nottinson will recover.

Good Citizenship Day.

Saturday, June 19, there will be a rally of the temperence forces at Clintondale. Besides the oration of Charles Wesley Burns, of Philadelphia, a number of other addresses will be given by prominent ministers and workers. Among them will be Rev. Goodling, Rev. Miller, Newton Baily, esq., and others, of Bellefonte; S. C. Watts, esq., Clearfield. editor of the Monitor; Rev. J. C. Wilhelm, I. C. Stoner, esq., and others, of Clinton County. All are welcome to all the services. The Clinton County Prohibitionists will also make their county nominations at the rally.

The Trouble at Tongue River Agency.

WASHINGTON, June 31.— The Indian office has received from Captain Stouch of the Tongue river, Montana, agency, a detailed report on the recent trouble there, arising from the murder of Settler John Hoover by David Stanley, a Cheyene brave. After much diplomacy on the part of the agent, Stanley and his two accomplices, Samuel Crow and Yellow Hair, are now lodged in jail at Miles City, and will be tried by the civil courts. Captain Stouch's description of the trouble is interesting in that it shows the constant conflict between the federal officers and the state authorities in arrests of Indians. In this case the presence of the sheriff and a large posse came near causing a conflict with the Indians.

HON. THOMAS F. BAYARD contributes to the June Century a tribute to Queen Victoria, apropos of the coming jubilee celebration. There will also be given in the number an article by Florence Hayward on "Queen Victoria's 'Coronation Roll,'" portions of which are reproduced by Her Majesty's special permission. The article is accompanied by four portraits of the Queen at different ages.

—Gov. D. H. Hastings and staff, arrived at Lemont on special car this morning, en-route for State College. The Gov. gave a short address at the Alumni dinner to-day noon, and will also deliver the Commencement address to the graduates, Wednesday at 10 o'clock a. m.

COLLEGE COMMENCEMENT

Much Skill Shown on The Athletic Field.

ORATORICALS OF MUCH INTEREST

Gen. James A. Beaver Introduces the Speakers—Robert Kerr Stevenson Awarded First Honers

PROCEEDINGS IN FULL TO WEDNESDAY

The Junior Oratorical contest, held in the chapel at the college on Monday evening, June 14th, was a success in every particular and of the greatest interest to all. The exercises began at 8:15, when all in the room were silenced and the time given expressly to the disposal of the speakers. Scarcely a word passed the ear of the listner.

The chapel was very beautifully decorated and its decorations brought in contact with the pleasantness of the evening out-of-doors, certainly presented a most beautiful appearance. The Latten & Chappel orchestra of Williamsport, furnished the music, and not any of us will doubt their ability to add harmony to the occasion.

Gen. James A. Beaver, of Bellefonte, introduced the speakers, and without a doubt his short and interesting talk had much bearing upon the contestants, enabling them to add much stress to their orations. The presiding judges were, Judge David L. Krebbs, of Clearfield, and Captain Pratt, President of the Indian School at Carlisle. The honors were awarded to Robert Kerr Stevenson, of Morris Run, Pa.

The program was as follows :

Music.

Oration—"Lessen Your Denominator," Harry Groff Huber, Greensburg.

Oration—"Maceo, the Cuban Martyr,', Charles Alvin Brown, McKeesport.

Music.

Oration—"Greece Against the World," Frank Andrew Kaiser, Wilkesbarre.

Oration—"Tact and Grit," Edward Bowman Espenshade, Lancaster.

Music.

Oration—"Robert E. Lee, Rebel and Patriot," Frank Troxel Beers, Emporia, Florida.

Oration—"Building a Monument," Robert Kerr Stevenson, Morris Run.

Music.

Announcement of Judges' decision.

ORDER OF FIELD EVENTS.

The seventh annual Inter-class Athletic contest was held on Beaver field, State College, Monday, June 14th, at 3:30 p. m. There was a large attendance and the events were closely contested and very interesting. They were as follows :

Pole Vault—Galloway, '98, Boyd and Edwards. Won by Edwards; 8 feet 4 inches.

Running High Jump—Pearce, Ansart, Rawn, Edwards and Norman. Won by Edwards; 5 feet 1¾ inches.

Throwing 16lb Hammer—McGee, Clapper, Weldy, Rawn, Longenecker and Scholl. Won by Scholl; 108 feet 2 inches. Rawn 2d and McGee 3d.

Half Mile Run—Won by Kaiser, '98; time, 2 min. 8 sec. Huston, '98, 2d and Bodle 3d.

TUESDAY'S PROCEEDINGS.

Tuesday was indeed a busy Commencement Day at the Pennsylvania State College. The early trains from Bellefonte brought many people and as they glided along towards the beautiful State College, that institution which has grown from a small farm school patronized only by people living in that vicinity, to, shall we say, a university which draws its students from all over this country, they could not help but be impressed with the scene which confronted them. The fertile Buffalo Run valley never looked brighter and all nature wore its loveliest garb. The day gave promise of being a fair one, but the black flag displayed on the College building indicated rain.

The program for the day commenced at 8:30 a. m. with the meeting of the Alumni Association. It was largely attended by those drawn there by love for their alma mater, and considerable business was transacted, the principal thing being the electing of president for the ensuing year. I. P. McCreary, of Osceola, was the man to be so honored.

At 10 o'clock the annual meeting of the Board of Trustees was held and some important business was transacted, after which they adjourned until 4:00 o'clock p. m.

The hour of 12:00 m. was set for the Alumni dinner, and at that time the friends of the institution, members of the Alumni and other invited guests, formed in line in the rotunda of the College building and marched to the beautiful Armory, where a sumptuous repast awaited them, prepared by the skilful hands of Caterer B. C. Achenbach, of Bellefonte. The tables were beautifully adorned with choice cut flowers and fairly groaned under the weight of good things. Plates had been set for 400 people and almost every place was taken. During the dinner the famous Stopper & Fiske orchrestra, of Williamsport, discoursed beautiful music.

After the inner man was satisfied Gen. James A. Beaver, who very gracefully acted as toastmaster, rapped for order. In few words he spoke of the rise and depicted the progress made by this institution in recent years. Those who made after-dinner speeches were Captain Pratt, of the Carlisle Indian school, who responded to the toast "Our Sister Institution;" Judge David L. Krebs, of Clearfield, who represented the legal fraternity; Dr. Lawrence M. Colfelt, who spoke for the Faculty; ex-Lieut. Gov. Charles W. Stone, of Warren, who spoke for the Board of Trustees; Hon. Robert L. Foster, who represented the legislative branch of our State government; I. P. McCreary, of Osceola, for the Alumni Association, and F. K. Zentmyer, of Clearfield, who spoke for the Class of '97. Before he began his speech General Beaver said he thought it would be proper for them to give their College yell, so they gathered in one corner of the vast

IF I KNEW.

If I knew the box where the smiles are kept
No matter how large the key
Or strong the bolt, I would try so hard
'Twould open, I know, for me.
Then over the land and the sea,
I'd scatter the smiles to play
That the children's faces might hold them fast
For many and many a day.
If I knew a box that would stay,
To hold all the free
I would like to gather
From nursery,
Then folding
And, turning and holding, I'd pack them in,
I'd hire a man
To the giant to drop the box depths of the deep, deep sea.

A LOVER'S JEALOUSY.

"Robert," said Mr. Vyse, slowly, gazing fixedly at the young clerk, "I have no doubt that it is you who have robbed me."

The hot blood flooded Robert Acland's neck and face as he took in the full meaning of the words.

"I swear to you, sir," he cried passionately, "that you wrong me—I swear it by my soul!"

"I wish I could believe you, Robert," Mr. Vyse replied, "for I like you; but, unfortunately, appearances are too much against you. What, may I ask, were you doing at five o'clock yesterday evening in my private room? You had no right or business there."

"Nor was I," returned the young fellow proudly, drawing himself up to his full height. "I've never been in this room in my life except when you have sent me. Has any one told you that I was here last evening, sir?"

"Yes, Robert. Your comrade, Richard Starkie, assured me of it not ten minutes ago."

"Richard Starkie!" exclaimed Acland, in great wonderment. "Why, he must be mad. What can have possessed him to tell so wicked a falsehood? We have always been good friends, he and I. Why should he thus try to ruin me, I wonder?"

The words, the tone, were those of an innocent man. Mr. Vyse began to waver in his opinion as to Acland's guilt.

"Robert," he said more kindly, "will you swear to me before God that you are innocent?"

Raising aloft his right hand, he said:

"I call the God before whose judgment throne we both shall one day stand to witness that I am guiltless," he declared solemnly. "Surely, sir, you will believe me now?"

Mr. Vyse held out his hand.

"Yes, Robert, I believe you," he said, "and I beg your pardon for having doubted you. But what Starkie's motive in traducing you has been I am at a loss to understand."

"So am I, sir," answered Acland. "His conduct is quite incomprehensible."

"Well, Robert," wound up the old gentleman, as he dismissed his clerk, "you must promise me one thing—that you will treat Starkie just the same as if nothing unusual had occurred. It is my wish."

"I will try, sir. But it will be a hard task," Acland replied as he quitted the room.

Left alone, Mr. Vyse, a hale, active man of sixty-five, lay back in his chair and gave himself up to thought. But the more he puzzled over the disappearance of his cash box the farther he seemed from a solution of the mystery. It was gone, but by whose hand it was difficult to say.

Of course the news that their employer had been robbed ran like wildfire through the small community. It was Richard Starkie who first made public the ill news, for no official intimation of it was given, but to his fellow workers he dare not try to incriminate young Acland, for Acland was a favorite with his colleagues, and Starkie knew well that any remark suggestive of his guilt would be received in stony silence—the silence of sheer disbelief.

That evening Bob Acland went to see Elsie Venner, the girl of his heart. There was no actual engagement between them, but Elsie understood quite well that Bob was only waiting for a rise of salary before asking her to be his wife. He had intended to tell her nothing about what had occurred at the office during the day, but the quick-witted girl soon saw that something was amiss, and taxed him with it, and after a little hesitation on his part and a little pressing on hers the whole story came out.

"I cannot think, darling," finished Bob, "what has induced Starkie to do it."

"Shall I tell you?" said Elsie demurely.

"You?"

"Yes, I. I can, you know." And then she proceeded to relate how Richard Starkie had a few days before asked her to marry him, and, on her refusal, flown into a violent rage, not only heaping anathemas on her head, but also on Bob.

"And you believe he has attempted to lay the theft at my door to blacken my character in your eyes? What a scoundrel the fellow must be!"

"If you had seen the look on his face when he left me," replied the girl, "you would think, as I do, that he is capable of anything."

Next day Bob Acland repeated to Mr. Vyse the conversation he had held with Elsie Venner.

Meanwhile Richard Starkie was in a very unhappy frame of mind. He had just sufficient manhood left to be able to appreciate the unutterable currishness of his own conduct. But that did not tend to make him sorry for what he had done. No, it rather embittered him still more against his rival. A mania for gambling, inherited from his father, who had betted away a large estate during his life, dying only just in time to save himself from actual starvation, had in the first instance made him short of money.

In order to retrieve his position he bet still more heavily, and again lost. Ill luck pursued him from day to day, till at last, unable to meet the demands made upon him, exposure stared him in the face, and exposure, he knew, meant prompt dismissal from Mr. Vyse's service. In this dilemma he stole the cash-box, and it was only when gloating over its contents that the idea of saddling Acland with the theft occurred to him.

It was Mr. Vyse's custom to go for a walk, unless the day was very wet, between the hours of twelve and one. He usually went down the high road straight out of the town for a mile, returning home over the fields and through a small plantation. A few days after the loss of the cash-box he took the accustomed path. Dot, his favorite dog, half pointer, half retriever, accompanied him. In the middle of the plantation Dot suddenly sniffed the air, then bounded in among the brushwood and pointed.

"Dot! Dot!" called his master. "Here good dog, come back!"

But Dot had evidently found something and refused to be shouted off. Mr. Vyse made his way to where the dog was standing. Up sprang a fine rabbit and dashed away, Dot in hot pursuit. But Mr. Vyse heeded neither rabbit nor dog. His gaze was riveted on the place from which the rabbit had jumped. Thus for a moment or two he stood, then, with a peculiar smile on his face, he wheeled round and walked briskly home.

Some three days later Richard Starkie was summoned to his chief's presence. He went, trembling, fearing he knew not what.

"Starkie," said Mr. Vyse, "you have been in my employ longer than any other of my clerks; therefore I think it only right to make you my spokesman to them. I wish you, then, to tell them on my behalf that I attribute the disappearance of my cash-box to none of them; that I am quite convinced of their innocence."

Richard Starkie paled slightly. Had his scheme to ruin young Acland failed miserably after all? It seemed so. But he replied with apparent frankness,—

"I am very pleased to hear that Robert Acland has cleared himself, sir."

"He has done so most completely," rejoined Mr. Vyse. "I have a very high opinion of Acland, Starkie."

"So have I, sir," he returned glibly, while he inwardly cursed the man of whom he spoke thus laudingly. "It has caused me great pain to think that he could possibly be a thief."

"Is it possible that this man is innocent after all?" wondered Mr. Vyse. "If not, his hypocrisy is simply astounding. But I shall soon know the truth."

"Just one thing more," continued Mr. Vyse, looking straight into his clerk's eyes, which met his own unflinchingly, "and this is for your ear alone, Starkie. In the theft of my cash-box I've sustained a far greater loss than any one but myself is aware of. It is a box of peculiar construction—in fact, it had a false bottom, and in that false bottom, Starkie, there were notes to the value of seven hundred pounds. I had placed them there only two days before I was robbed."

"Of course, you have the numbers, sir?"

"Why, yes, I have the numbers, Starkie, but an expert thief—and I imagine from the coolness and audacity of the robbery that I have been the victim of one—finds no difficulty in changing stolen paper. He knows where to take it and obtain a good price."

When Richard Starkie went back to his old colleagues to give them their employer's message, his breast was torn by two emotions—baffled spite and greed of further gold.

"I will destroy him yet," he thought of Bob Acland. "He's escaped me for a while, but it shall not be for long. Elsie Venner shall never be his wife."

"Poor old buffer"—his mind reverting to the man whose presence he had just left—"you little guessed that in making a confidant of me you were telling the thief how to further enrich himself! Well, five hundred quids will come in very handy just now, and, I suppose, the commission would not be more than two hundred pounds. Markby's getting very restive for his money and I could pay him and still have a nice little balance in hand. You're in luck's way, Dick, my boy. Fortune favors you."

Bending down amid the bramble and brushwood which formed the undergrowth of a small plantation, groping among the briars and the grass, Richard Starkie was searching for the cash-box.

"I know I flung it somewhere here," he muttered fiercely. "Where can the thing be? Ah," and his hand at last alighted on some metal, "here you are! I was just beginning to think that jadish fortune had served me a scurvy trick. Well," clasping the box to his bosom, "you've been a good friend to me, and I'll treat you as lightly as possible. Come, let's away—merciful powers, what's that?"

Four stalwart arms had seized him from behind and were holding him with a vise-like grip, and, before he knew what was really taking place, he felt the cold steel on his wrists and realized that he was a prisoner, a detected thief who had blindly fallen into a skilfully laid trap.—Tid-Bits.

He Named the Mule.

"I reckons," said the old colored man, "dat I better change de name o' dat mule." "It doesn't make much difference what you call a mule, does it?" "No. But I likes ter hab it somethin' 'propriate. Did you ebber hyah tell 'bout suhcumstances ober which you had no control?" "Yes." "Well, dat's whut I'se gwinter call 'im; 'Suhcumstances?'"—Washington Star.

Bicycle Costumes: Graduating and Wedding Dresses: Verandah Hats: Plaited Collars:

The rage for bicycle riding has introduced some very expensive white or light-colored costumes which are however only appropriate to clean roads and sunny skies, whereas a dress of Scotch mixture will come unharmed through any vicissitudes of weather, and look thouroughly practical and genteel. Purple cloth braided in black is very handsome, or dark myrtle green broadcloth, but strange to say the color least popular is navy blue, but light blue, with white applique work on skirt' sleeves, revers or pocket straps is considered stylish. Heavy green linen trimmed with fancy white braid looks very attractive and can be washed which is always an advantage. Suits of white cloth fancifully trimmed with crimson cloth and gilt braid look very dashing, and with a white skirt, a crimson blazer trimmed with gilt may be worn. Usually hats match the costume, and a white chiffon vest, white gauntlets and white satin ribbon collar trimmed with lace, are deemed but a fitting accessories to a white cloth costume.

GRADUATING DRESSES

may beextremely simple or very much ornamented, and hand-work with scarcely any limitation can be expended upon tucks or ruffles. A fine muslin with tucked skirt and tucked yoke, merging at the back into a sort of sailor collar is new and most appropriate. Other styles however show lace skirts trimmed with many rows of satin ribbon, and corsage and sleeves to match; or insertion and double ruffles may alternate on the skirt, and insertion on the waist may be used diagonally, forming two diamonds on the sleeves and one at back or front. White organdy under muslin gives a soft effect, and where a colored lining is desired, organdy may be substituted for silk. The variety of silk, organdy, net, embroidered batiste, braided pique, duck or light wool dresses now shown by leading houses, make shopping the first consideration; but despite all other attractions, no summer list of purchases ever fails to include a good supply of Murray & Lanman's Florida water, so refreshing and delightful at all times but especially at this season of the year.

TRAVELING DRESSES

are no longer objects of special consideration, as any neat dress of plain or mixed stuff and cambric or silk shirt waist with a cape or jacket for protection from sudden changes, answers every purpose. Those who desire the most expensive and fashionable wedding dress, buy white satin, and cut the train round, with a gored front breadth and circular sides. Crepe de Chine over flimsy satin is soft and pretty with a full round waist trimmed with lace and long sleeves with the material wrinkled over the satin, with tucks at the edges if required.

THE LARGER PROPORTION

of shade hats are lavishly trimmed with drooping ostrich plumes and Leghorns as usual are in the ascendancy. Colored fancy straws in green, straw color, pink or white, are really prettier, trimmed with flowers and velvet loops. A great deal of tulle is still noticeable, particularly on the edge of the brims, but sharp contrasts are not placed together, and trimmings not conspicuously high. Mull hats show satin edged ruffles on the brim, with broad loops at the front where pointed pieces of mull are hemmed and plaited in imitation of wings. High shirred crowns belong to this style, but with a shirred brim accordian plaited mull is bunched around the low crown, forming a sort of wreath.

MANY NEW SHIRT WAISTS

have a standing ruffle (plaited) around the neck, sometimes almost meeting, then again only at the back. A velvet collar with plaited lace and belt to match is very pretty on foulard silk waists. Velutina is well adapted to this purpose, as it produces a softening effect. Full neck garnitures are almost the rule, and plaited or plain silk ties or colored chiffon, with a bow at the front, are fastened around linen or satin stocks.

Exchange Courtesies.

WASHINGTON, June 9.—Vice President and Mrs. Hobart entertained President and Mrs. McKinley and a few friends at dinner to-night. Those present included Senator Hanna, Secretary Bliss, Secretary Porter and Mrs. Porter, Mrs. Saxton and Miss Kinsey. This is Mrs. McKinley's birthday anniversary, and in honor of the event and as a surprise to the distinguished guest, Mrs. Hobart presented her with a large ornamented cake, which after the dinner was sent to the white house.

Will Serve as a Basis.

PARIS, June 9.—The Temps publishes a despatch from Constantinople saying that the report of the representatives of the British, Russian and Italian ambassadors who are going to Thessaly, is intended to serve as a basis upon which to determine the amount of indemnity which Greece will have to pay Turkey as a result of a recent war between those two countries.

Fast Speakers in Congress.

Fred S. Irland, one of the expert stenographers of the House, talked interestingly yesterday regarding the speed with which congressmen talk.

"It has been said in the newspapers," remarked Mr. Irland, "that Representative Lewis, of Washington, talks at the rate of 300 words a minute. He does not. No man could speak in the House at that speed and be reported. I doubt whether he could be understood. I mean, of course, such words as occur in debates. Of course, in taking routine testimony, where frequently recurring phrases, such as 'what is your name?' and 'where do you live?' are expressed by brief arbitrary signs, a stenographer can write as fast as a man can think. It is a very different matter when a congressman talks. He uses words with many syllables."

"What is the fastest record in the House?"

"Representative Johnson, of Indiana, once talked for an hour and a half, when discussing a contested election case, at an average rate of 220 words a minute. That is rapid work. If a man talks 250 words a minute he is very swift. I have noticed one thing," said Mr. Irland, "the fast talkers slow up after being in the House a little while. The vastness of the air space they have to fill with their voices gradually makes its impression upon them, and they find, too, that they get more attention when they do not talk so fast."—Washington Post.

Tragedy in a Court Room.

JUNCTION CITY, Ark., June 9—A tragedy was enacted here to-day in a justice court room in which one man was murdered and which may result in the lynching of the murderer before morning. The murdered man was W. B. Coffee, of Eldorado, and the murderer is J. J. Sheppard, of the same place. Both men were lawyers. Coffee and Sheppard were opposing counsel in a trial before Justice Wright. During the progress of the case the attorneys became involved in a despute. Coffee picked up a chair, and Sheppard, drawing a pistol, fired four shots into coffee's body, killing him almost instantly. Sheppard is in jail, under a heavy guard to prevent lynching.

A Letter to Aunt Rachael.

CARIO, Ill., August 29,

To Aunt Rachael Speer at Passaic, N. J.:

DEAR MADAM:—We have used your Malarial Bitters for several months past and find it the very best tonic we have ever used to effectually wipe out all traces of malarial fever.

My wife has been sickly, feverish, weak and languid for the past four seasons, and tried almost everything. We heard so much of your bitters that I concluded to try it; my wife's appetite has returned and she is strong, well and sprightly again and all owing to your Peruvian Malarial Bitters.

The Nizam's Diamond.

LONDON, June 9.—The Premier of Hyderbald telegraphs to the London papers this morning that the story widely circulated to the effect that the imperial diamond, the property of the Nizam of Hyderbad, had been stolen is a pure fiction. The original story represented that the thief had replaced the imperial with a clever substitute and that the imposture was for a long time successful. The imperial is the largest brilliant in the world weighing 180 carats and has fifty-eight facets. It was sold to the Nizam in 1891, through Alexander Jacob for $2,000,000, though this sum was very much in excess of its real value. The transaction gave rise to complicated litigation, the Indian government authorities objecting to so large an outlay by the Nizam for a mere luxury.

—Prof. Willard, of State College, met with quite an accident Wednesday morning. He was called suddenly to Tyrone on business and had just twelve minutes to reach Lemont to catch the train. He started on a wheel which he had recently purchased, but was thrown off, badly bruising and cutting his hand. In spite of this he reached his destination in time to make the train.

Mountain Seminary.

TYRONE, Pa., June 9.—The fortieth annual commencement of Mountain Seminary, Birmingham, was inaugurated on Sunday, when Rev. Mr. Means, of Philipsburg, preached the baccalaureate sermon. Monday evening the Senior reception took place, at which many of the former students of the Seminary were present. On Tuesday afternoon the reception in the art studio was given, when a pleasing display of the students' work was shown. The concert was given on Tuesday evening. The commencement exercises proper were held this morning at 9:30. Rev. Charles Wood, D. D., pastor of the Second Presbyterian church, Philadelphia, delivered the address. The class is composed of Miss Bessie Patton, of Wayne, Pa.; Miss Ethel Van Horn, of Belvidere, N. J., and Miss Mabel Robertson, of Mt. Carmel, Pa.

A large number of the alumnae were present, several of whom took part in the exercises in honor of the fortieth anniversary of the principal, Miss N. J. Davis, who has been with the school continuously since its inception.

At the close of the exercises a generous purse, sufficient to give her a European trip during the summer, was presented to Miss Davis in the Seminary parlors by the alumni. She also received many congratulatory telegrams.

C. E. New Officers.

The Christian Endeavor Society of the Presbyterian church, of this city, held a meeting this week for the purpose of electing officers for the ensuing six months, with the following result:

Jas. R. Hughes, president; Samuel Taylor, vice president; Harris Heylman, treasurer; Miss Belle Weaver, recording secretary; Miss Jessie Laurie, corresponding secretary.

Death at Colyer.

Mr. Jacob Smith died at his home in Colyer, on Thursday, June 3, aged 57 years, 1 month and 20 days. Deceased was a successful merchant for many years and at the time of his death was postmaster at Colyer. He was an uncle of Prothonotary Smith, of this city. Funeral took place on Monday.

Warm Weather Coming.

Warmer and more seasonable weather may be expected within the next few days.

The northwestern section of the country, and the residents thereof, were visted by a wave of heat yesterday that forced the mercury up to 80. This wave is headed in this direction and is expected shortly.

As To "Czar" Reed.

It affords the Democratic organs apparent comfort to refer to Speaker Reed as a czar and despot and to convey the inference that he is ruling the house with a rod of iron. The real situtation has been that when he was assailed some weeks ago by Sockless Jerry and a few other cranks for not appointing all the committees, he reminded his assailants in the house—and those outside of it know it as well—that he was the servent of the house and not its master, and that if the house ordered the naming of the committees he would at once obey. This it has not done. On this subject the St. Louis Globe-Democrat fairly says: "Simpson and a few other fresh Popocrats have apealed from the speaker's ruling, and have promptly been suppressed by an overwhelming majority of the house. About half a dozen test votes on the speaker's course have been had, and in every case his tyranny has been sustained. If a man can be a 'czar' who has a large majority on his side at all times that designation is the highest sort of a compliment which an official in authority could seek." The real grievance of the Democratic organs is that. Speaker Reed, supported by the house, is that general legislation is not the business of this special session, but the matter of tariff and revenue. What these organs would like to see would be the lugging in of as many other matters as possible, thus delaying the passage and operation of the pending tariff billand bulging a few more warehouses with imports under the present law

Fire in Gregg Township.

On Wednesday morning, June 2nd, between the hours of three and five o'clock, the house of Jonas Confer, near the Mountain Church in Gregg township, together with the summer kitchen, and all the furniture and clothing were destroyed by fire. The occupants, Mr. and Mrs. Confer, and Jack Harbaugh, who was boarding there at the time, when they retired on Tuesday night could see no signs of fire anywhere. When they awoke in the morning, about 4 o'clock, they heard a noise very much resembling that of thunder. Harbaugh, who slept upstairs jumped to the floor and gave the alarm. To their consternation the flames had gained such headway that it was impossible to save the house or any of its contents. As there was no insurance on the property it is a total loss. —Millheim Journal.

A $3,000 Stallion.

Jersey Shore Vidette: A coach stallion that cost the farmers of Crawford township $3,000 some five years ago, is standing in a stable at Rauchtown with hoofs as long as a fence rail. The horse is worth about $1.25. This stallion was a beauty when first purchased, but for the past few years has been neglected, and is left standing in the stable. About five or six years ago it was a common thing for a good talker to come into a country town and get up a stock company among the farmers and sell them a draught stallion for $3,000, taking notes in payment. The salesman figured it out that the scheme was a money-making one, but we never heard of a stock company that ever made a dollar out of the deal. When the notes came due there was a great deal of grumbling and fault finding but the men who had signed their names had to pay the money. There will be some other scheme to take the place of this one. There are always others. A big law suit will follow this case.

Food, undigested, is poison. Digested, it is life and strength. Millions of us suffer from indigestion but we often don't know it. We think it is something else. Even doctors often mistake the symptoms.

Pale, thin people, who are overworked, who need strength, who seem in want of proper food, should take Shaker Digestive Cordial. It is astonishing what food will do, when properly digested.

It will make you strong, revive you, refresh you, sustain you, make you fat, restore your color, make muscle, brain fibre, courage, endurance, energy; increase your power to throw off disease and keep you healthy and happy.

Indigestion does just the opposite, but indigestion can be cured and prevented with Shaker Digestive Cordial.

The Gain in Business Still Continues Says Dun & Co.

M RE QUANTITIES THAN PRICES

Employment of Labor is Slowly Increasing—Many Mills Have Resumed and as a Consequence Earnings Have Increased.

WHAT BRADSTREET HAS TO SAY

NEW YORK, June 11.—R. G. Dun & Co.'s weekly review of trade to-morrow will say: The gain in business continues, not without fluctuation and at the best moderate but yet distinct. It is still in quantities rather than in prices, although in some branches an advance in prices appears, but on the whole the number of bands employed, the volume of new orders and the amount of work done are slowly increasing. Wheat looks well and the best trade authority now estimates the yield at 515,000,000 bushels, with many state and railroad returns to support it. Neither cotton or woolen mills can expect other than a waiting business with a change of tariff impending, but the demand is steady, though moderate. Carpet mills at Philadelphia, which have just resumed after a long idleness, were also buyers, and all are now running nearly full time. Iron furnaces in blast June 1 reported a weekly output of 168,380 tons against 170,528 May 1. Philadelphia reports decided improvement in finished iron with fewer concessions, and Pittsburg large structural orders, while apprehension of labor difficulties has induced much buying at the west,

BRADSTREET'S VIEW.

NEW YORK, June 11.—Bradstreet's, to-morrow, will say:

Notwithstanding the cool, wet weather which characterized the distribution of seasonable goods, disappointment at the restriction of distribution of merchandise in the spring and early summer is giving way to hopefulnes for the fall trade. Business is better than a year ago. The volume is larger and there are more people employed than prior to the last presidential election. The encouraging features announced this week are the improvement in May railroad earnings and the advance in the price of Bessemer pig iron, although the latter is less significant than some reports indicate.

There were 256 business failures reported throughout the United States this week, compared with 197 last week and 234 in the week a year ago.

Prisoner On The Stand.

MILFORD, Pa., June 11.—The trial of Herman Schutz for the murder of his wife was given an additional interest to-day by the prisoner taking the stand.

Dr. Weaver was examined. He showed the woman's skull and explained the direction of the bullet. Dr. Weaver admitted the possibility of the woman having commited suicide.

The prisoner then took the stand. He admitted the truth of the testimony concerning his appearance at Shohola up until the time of the finding of the body. He said that the disagreements with his Terrible Starvation in China.

Woman Suffrage in New Zealand.

JESSIE J. CASSIDY.

In the April Forum, Hon. Hugh H. Lusk, ex-member of the New Zealand Parliament, gives an account of woman suffrage in that country. His testimony is entirely in favor of the change. He says:

"At both the general elections candidates were favored whose personal character stood high and whose political record was irreproachable Ability, even where it was well known, failed in many cases to secure election where personal character was questionable. * * * Party distinctions seem, to a considerable extent, to have lost their hold upon the voters. * * * * It was confidently expected that the first consequence of granting the franchise to women would be an overwhelming strengthening of the anti-liquor party. * * * Throughout the country the extreme (Prohibition) measure has been discredited," the preference being shown for local option. "Political meetings in New Zealand are no longer assemblies of men alone, but are largely attended by women also; the change has led to a great improvement, both in the character of the proceedings and in the oratory."

Mr. Lusk seems to be under the impression that the women themselves made little or no effort to secure the suffrage; that the different degrees were bestowed upon them by men who became convinced by practical experience, "that the possession of the franchise by women did them no injury, while it had a decidedly beneficial effect upon the conduct of the public affairs." Doubtless the general exercise of the smaller degrees of suffrage first granted simplified masculine opposition, but it is hardly credible that all was secured with as little effort as Mr. Lusk claims. Mrs. Mary H. Loines, chairman of the legislative committee of the New York Woman Suffrage association, has recently returned from London, and there she heard Mrs. Reeves, wife of one of the New Zealand government officials, say, "They had a long struggle to get Parliamentary suffrage. The bill would pass two readings and be killed in committee, and was brought up year after year only to be defeated in committee or at the final reading. It was at last passed by a majority of one, two in favor being ill."

The New York Tribune lately published an interview with Richard John Seddon, premier of New Zealand, who was en route to the Queen's jubilee as New Zealand's representative:

"When woman suffrage was first suggested," he said, "I was somewhat indifferent and doubtful about going ahead with it. Now that we have a practical demonstration of it, I am more than convinced that it is a good idea. Women are ineligible to our parliament. They are eligible to local offices and the various boards. We find them of great assistance in departments involving charities, prison work and such lines. They are conscientious officers, and in many places are undoubtedly better equipped for the work than men would be in the same places. I think fully 90 per cent. of the women entitled to vote cast their ballots at the last election. Personal feeling has not nearly so much to do with the votes of the women as it has with the votes of men. They are straightforward and conscientious in this and vote as reason dictates."

The evidence from New Zealand accords with the results in this country. Better men are elected and better order is maintained.

—Some people in this place continue to complain of hard times, and think if there were more employment given times would improve. There are now employed at our furnace 200 persons; at our lime kilns 200; at the glass works 30; on the railroads, persons who live here and do their trading in Bellefonte, 45, making a total of 475 employes, which is pretty fair for a small town.

—A fellow sent a dollar th e other day for an advertised method of saving one-half his gas bills, and received a printed slip telling him to paste 'em in a scrap book.

Attributed to Hypnotism.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., June 7.—As a result of a terrible struggle in a little room at 805 Allen avenue, Joseph Feiferlick will probably die within twenty-four hours, and a charge of murder will lie against George, his twenty-seven-year-old brother.

From stories told by relatives of the dying man and the imprisoned brother it would seem that another is responsible for the crime. It is a case into which hypnotism enters.

The Feiferlick family is one of the oldest in St. Louis. While in San Francisco one year ago George was hypnotized while at an entertainment. Since then he has acted strangely, and his crazed attack upon Joseph is attributed to this influence.

Silver Wedding Anniversary.

Mr. and Mrs. Hugh W. Worrick, of Mackeyville, celebrated their silver wedding anniversary Thursday. The event was made the occasion for the assembling of fifty or more invited guests at the farm home of Mr. and Mrs. Worrick. The guests were received by the host and hostess, after which dinner was served. Among those present were persons from Centre Hall, Milesburg, Montandon, Woolrich, Lock Haven, and LeMars, Iowa.

The hearty congratulations of all present were extended to Mr. and Mrs. Worrick, and they also received numerous gifts as mementos of the occasion.—Lock Haven Express.

The Golden Star Gold Mining Co., OF MONTANA.

Owning 3½ great and rich gold mines, offers a small portion of its shares to the investing public at a very low price. The capitalization is very small. Several thousands of dollars have already been expended and over [illegible] cent of underground work is done on the property, which is rich in gold, copper and some silver. These shares now obtainable at a very low price are the best investment on the financial market to-day and ought to pay at least 10c per share per month dividends in the near future. Baby's Smooth, Fair Skin

Is Due to Hood's Sarsaparilla—It Cured Him of Dreadful Scrofulous Sores—Now in Good Health.

"At the age of two months, my baby began to have sores break out on his right cheek. We used all the local external applications that we could think or hear of, to no avail. The sores spread all over one side of his face. We consulted a physician and tried his medicine, and in a week the sore was gone. But to my surprise in two weeks more another scrofulous looking sore made its appearance on his arm. It grew worse and worse, and when he was three months old, I began giving him Hood's Sarsaparilla. I also took Hood's Sarsaparilla, and before the first bottle was finished, the sores were well and have never returned. He is now four years old, but he has never had any sign of those scrofulous sores since he was cured by Hood's Sarsaparilla, for which I feel very grateful. My boy owes his good health and smooth, fair skin to this great medicine." MRS. S. S. WORTEN, Farmington, Delaware.

Hood's Sarsaparilla is sold by all druggists. $1, six for $5. Be sure to get Hood's.

How Ice Came to a Louisiana Planter.

"Talk about hail storms," said Colonel Martin, of Lafourche. "The worst hail storm I ever saw occurred in my parish several weeks ago, and without exaggeration the hail stones were the largest on record, at least in the annals of Lafourche parish.

"A peculiar feature of the storm was the fact that upon the Arcadia plantation of Mr. Price the stones were as large as hen's eggs, completely stripping the cane and other growing stuff, breaking the slates upon the sheds and sugar house, and causing severe injuries to a number of negroes who were in the field. The dropping of the hail sounded like the bombardment of a battery of artillery, and when the storm cersed it was found that nearly eighteen inches of hail had fallen in a particular spot upon the plantation. This was ascertained by a measurement of the deposit in several cane carts which were in the storm. In order to preserve as many of the enormous stones as possible Colonel Will Price had the hands shovel several tons into his cold storage room, ond they are still there, although more or less frozen into an almost indistinguish able mass of ice These statements will be vouched for by any person upon the plantation."—New Orleans Times-Democrat.

Tuesday's Missionary Meeting.

The meeting of the Womens' Foreign Missionary Society held in the Methodist church, Tuesday afternoon and evening were of a most interesting feature throughout. The meetings were led by Miss Sallie Kittleberger, District Secretary. Mrs. W. T, Twitmire was elected secretary of the convention. Miss Kittleberger gave a splendid talk on "District Organization," which was brim full of good sound information. She then read her annual report, and the meeting was adjourned till evening.

TUESDAY EVENING'S SESSION.

The program of Tuesday evening's meeting was as follows: Singing of an anthem, by the choir; Devotional exercises, led by Miss Kittleberger; "Wrods of Greeting," by Miss Mary Owen; Response, by Miss Debbie Read; Solo, by Miss Annie Furley. The meeting was then closed by a very spicy address, relative to missionary work, delivered by Dr. W. A Stephens.

Economy and strength are combined in Hood's Sarsaparilla. Every bottle contains 100 doses and will average to last a month.

THAT ELLIS ISLAND FIRE

The Government Is Supposed to Lose at Least $780,000.

ALL THE IMMIGRANTS RESCUED

But the Baggage and the Important Papers Were Destroyed—None of the People Burned in the Trouble.

FLAMES SWEPT FAST AND SWIFT

NEW YORK, June 15.—Fire at an early hour this morning destroyed the immigrant landing station that covered almost all of Ellis Island, causing a property loss of about $780,000 to the United States government. All of the government records and the baggage of the immigrants were burnt. Two hundred and fifty immigrants were rescued from the burning structure and brought safely to this city. Not one of them received a burn. There were forty patients in the Wooden Hospital building in the rear of the main structure, who were carried out on cots just before the hospital took fire. The cause of the fire is as yet a mystery. It started in the east end of the main structure, which was more than 1,000 feet long and three stories high. The first floor of this building was almost entirely given up for baggage, while the eastern end of the second story was used for offices. The third story was used as a reviewing gallery. The middle and southern portions of the first two stories were used for landing bureaus and detention rooms. It was in this part of the building that most of the immigrants were sleeping last night.

When Chief Night Watchman Burke noticed the fire it was licking around one of the towers. He at once summoned the thirty men employed under him, who quickly locked the iron gates leading to the detention room and aroused the sleepers, who were resting on benches and on wire cots. One of the night watchmen was also sent across the bridge to the woman's dormitory, contained in a two story building in the rear of the landing depot. They were hustled down stairs into the yard in the rear of the landing depot and then conducted around the west end of the building and soon to the ferry slip, where the ferry boat John Carlisle was lying with steam up.

Meantime some of the immigrants who had escaped from the main building had become aroused about their baggage, and, despite the fact that the vast building was fast being consumed by the flames, rushed back to save it. Captain Burke and his men had to fairly fight them back on the boat. They wept and wrung their hands when they found it was impossible to save their property.

At 2 o'clock the flames were under control. The big station, the hospital, the laundry, restaurant, doctors' houses and a number of small outbuildings were in ashes.

In an interview Commissioner of Immigration Dr. Zenner said this morning that the loss to the government is about $780,000.

hall and, with the only lady in the class in the centre, made the building ring with their yell. After this address the dinner came to an end and everyone adjourned to the campus to witness the splendid drill of the State College Cadets. It looked very much like rain at this time, but in spite of this there was a large attendance of people, all eager to see the graceful movements of the Cadets. They gave a fine exhibition, opening with a sham battle and, winding up with dress parade. Their work reflects great credit on Capt. Pierson, their instructor. Capt. Pierson is a graduate of West Point and a soldier every inch of him.

At 4:00 o'clock the Board of Trustees met again and re elected the following gentlemen members of the board: Gabriel Heister, of Harrisburg; Hon. Francis Jordan, of Harrisburg; R. H. Thomas, of Mechanicsburg; Cyrus T. Fox, of Reading, and Gen. James A. Beaver, of Bellefonte.

The day's proceedings came to a fitting close with an eloquent address delivered to the Alumni, in the chapel, by Hon. M. S. J. McCarrell, of Harrisburg, President of the Senate of Pennsylvania.

Landers Gets Two Years.

Judge Metzgar at Williamsport Friday sentenced ex-Postmaster George K. Landers, of Newberry, to two years imprisonment in the penitentiary for his assault upon Seth T. Foresman last January. When sentence was pronounced, Landers fell to the floor and his mother fainted. Both were assisted to their feet and taken out of the room. The attorneys, with citizens, had signed a petition, asking the court for clemency. The Judge rebuked the petitioners by stating that courts were for the purpose meting out justice and not mercy. The board of pardons, he stated, was the tribunal to ask for mercy in a case of this kind. Before pronouncing sentence on Landers, the Judge administered a severe reprimand to the prisoner.

A Nervous Woman.

America is the land of nervous women. The great majority of nervous women are so because they are suffering from some form of female disease. By far the greatest number of female troubles are caused directly by catarrh. They are catarrh of the organ which is affected. These women despair of recovery. Female taouble is so common, so prevalent, that they accept it as almost invitable. The greatest obstacle in the way of recovery is that they do not understand that it is catarrh which is the source of their illness. All women who are in doubt as to what their trouble is should write Dr. Hartman, Columbus, Ohio. Give him a full description of your trouble previous treatment, symptoms and age. He will promptly reply with full directions free of charge. This is an opportunity which no ailing woman should miss. Dr. Hartman has become renowned through his success in treating women's diseases. His experience in these matters is vast Correspondence is strictly confidential. No testimonials published without writen consent. Dr. Hartman relies principally upon Pe-ru-na in these cases. Pe-ru-na cures catarrh wherever located.

Dr. Hartman has lately written a treatise on the diseases of women. It will be sent free to any address by The Pe-ru-na Drug Manufacturing Company, Columbus, Ohio.

Mattern Reunion.

The committee on program for the formal ceremonies at the Mattern reunion to be held at Warriorsmark on Thursday, the 24th, has arranged a schedule of exercises. The meeting, at about 10 o'clock, will be called to order by the chairman o the association, Rev. John A. Mattern, of Newton Hamilton, and the first number of the program will be music by the Warriorsmark Cornet band, after which a choir, arranged for the occasion, will render vocal selection; then Rev. Harrison, of Stormstown, will lead in prayer. The next number will be music by an orchestra in charge of Roy Mattern, of Milesburg, and next will be an address of welcome by Lewis W. Mattern, of Warriorsmark, which will be responded to by John W. Mattern, of Philipsburg. The cornet band will then trender another selection, after which Dr. W. H. Flenner, of Tyrone, will read letters from absent friends and a memorial to the memory of the relatives who have died since the last reunion.

In the afternoon at about 2 o'clock the cornet band will render a selection, after which Bishop J. H. Vincent, of the Methodist Episcopal church, will deliver an address. The bishop will be followed by others, who will make short addresses. The exercises during the afternoon will be interspersed with recitations and music. The badges will be similar to those worn last reunion.

Sprankle-Eckart.

This from Daily Herald, 15th: A trunk which was taken from the Bald Eagle valley train this morning and shipped east on day express, checked to Danbury, Conn., contained many other ornaments besides the check. It was generously labeled with hugh cards, whose inscriptions proclaimed that the owners were newly ushered into the married state. A red card urged "Hurry through," and other suggestive inscriptions were, "Yes, this is the first time it happened," "They loved, they married and——," "There are others, but none so happy as we, "O, this is dead easy," "We will have troubles of our own," "Just married." All these decorations were in honor of the marriage of John K. Sprankle, of Tyrone, and Miss Laura Eckart, of Snow Shoe Intersection, which took place at the home of the bride's father at the latter place at 8 o'clock this morning. Rev. D. W. Hiney performed the ceremony. The happy couple, amids showers of rice, left on the morning train bound for Danbury, Conn., where they will spend their honeymoon. The bride is a daughter of C. C. Eckart, track foreman at Snow Shoe Intersection, and is a young lady of real worth. The groom is a son of Moses Sprankle, of Tyrone, and is a flagman on Tyrone division.

Schulz Convicted.

MILFORD, Pa., June 13.—The jury in the case of Herman Paul Schulz, of New York, charged with the murder of his wife, brought in a verdict of guilty of murder in the first degree. The jury was out all night and rendered the verdict at 9.30 o'clock this morning.

Girls and Compliments.

Not to value honest praise, not to enjoy the appreciation of one's fellows, to be indifferent to their good as to their ill opinion, it is less likely to be a mark of lofty superiority than of intense self satisfaction.

Kindly people, friendly people, modest people like to be praised. They find a compliment agreeable which is sincere and not excessive, and in one way or another they are pretty sure to manifest their pleasure in it.

Often, however they do so against their will making all the time a poor pretence of indifference which they suppose to be demanded by modesty or politeness.

Sometimes they go further, and insistently disclaim praise which they cannot but know is fairly merited. Again they giggle foolishly, or try to waive the matter aside with an airy gesture and a laugh that does not ring true.

Girls especially, who are most likely to receive compliments, are least likely to receive them well. Often a pretty girl will destroy a delightful impression by her silly embarrassment at a few natural words of admiration for her youth and freshness.

As she flushes and laughs, looks up and then down, and turns her head consciously aside, one feels that there can be but little admirable about her except her beauty, if that is so important to her that a mere reference to it in her presence moves her so easily.

Or a clever girl, who thinks it due to her reputation for cleverness to despise compliments will repel where she has just attracted by airs of poorly acted disdain.

There is no real difficulty in acceptinga compliment. It is neither vain nor undignified, but rather gracious and becoming, to take pleasure in giving pleasure. Therefore, if a girl has given pleasure, either by her appearance or by her actions, and if some one tells her of it there is always something honest, simple and suitable that she can say in reply:

"I am glad that you were pleased," "I am glad you think I did well," or "I am glad you approve my work."

There is no need either to disclaim or to assent to the praise uttered, therefore there is no reason why one should be embarrassed in its acceptance. Let every one admire honestly, but let one also honestly receive admiration that is courteously and properly expressed.

It is lovely to be loved, delightful to be admired, agreeable to be praised. That is what every girl feels, and what no girl need be ashamed frankly to acknowledge. She need be ashamed only if she magnifies a compliment, which is after all a trifle, into something sufficiently important to disconcert her, or reward honest appreciation with insincerity and pretence.

HOW TO FIND OUT.

Fill a bottle or common water glass with urine and let it stand twenty-four hours; a sediment or settling indicates a diseased condition of the kidneys. When urine stains linen it is positive evidence of kidney trouble. Too frequent desire to urinate or pain in the back, is also convincing proof that the kidneys and bladder are out of order.

WHAT TO DO.

There is comfort in the knowledge so often expressed, that Dr. Kilmer's Swamp Root, the great kidney remedy, fulfills every wish in relieving pain in the back, kidneys, liver bladder and every part of the urinary passages. It corrects inability to hold urine and scalding pain in passing it, or bad effects following use of liquor, wine or beer, and overcomes that unpleasant necessity of being compelled to get up many times during the night to urinate. The mild and the extraordinary effect of Swamp Root is soon realized. It stands the highest for its wonderful cures of the most distressing cases. If you need a medicine you should have the best. Sold by druggists, price fifty cents and one dollar. For a sample bottle and pamphlet, both sent free by mail, mention the REPUBLICAN and send your full post office address to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghampton, N. Y. Academy 14, State College 4.

An interesting game of ball was played at State College between the State College boro nine and the Bellefonte Academy which resulted in a score of 9 to 4 in favor of the latter.

The boys deserve great credit for wining this game as they had a strong nine against them. The four runs made by the College boys were all scored in the 1st inning. Rine and Campbell did the battery work for Bellefonte. Our boy peak in the highest term of the way they were treated by the College people, as very kindness possible was shown them.

Boy Bicyclist Killed.

Howard Pouliette, a boy of 8 years, was killed at Winterburne on Friday, his death resulting from injuries received while riding a bicycle. The wheel collided with a fence and the boy was so badly hurt that death resulted eight hours later.

Ladies Who Suffer

From any complaint peculiar to their sex—such as Profuse, Painful, Suppressed or Irregular Menstruation, are soon restored to health by Bradfield's Female Regulator.

It is a combination of remedial agents which have been used with the greatest success for more than 25 years, and known to act specifically with and on the organs of Menstruation, and recommended for such complaints only. It never fails to give relief and restore the health of the suffering woman. It should be taken by the girl just budding into womanhood when Menstruation is Scant, Suppressed, Irregular or Painful, and all delicate women should use it, as its tonic properties have a wonderful influence in toning up and strengthening the system by driving through the proper channels all impurities.

"A daughter of one of my customers missed menstruation from exposure and cold, and on arriving at puberty her health was completely wrecked, until she was twenty-four years of age, when upon my recommendation, she used one bottle of Bradfield's Female Regulator, completely restoring her to health."

This Dog Understood.

WINSTED, June 7.—Allen H. Norton, of this town, is the owner of a farm over the state line in Massachusetts. For many years Mr. Norton has had on the farm a dog of cocker spaniel and hound breed, which has been of considerable use about the place and also a good hunter of coons and other game. But the dog is now 12 years old, minus some of his teeth and getting feeble, so it was thought best to shoot it.

Consequently, about two weeks ago the man in charge of the farm took the dog out in the lots to dispose of it. He laid his gun on the ground and proceeded to dig a grave for the dog, while the faithful animal lay beside the implement intended soon to end its life and watched the hole in the ground gradually grow deeper. The man had nearly finished his excavation when the dog suddenly sprang to its feet and rushed from the place. For the first time on record it refused to respond to the man's call, but hurried to the river's brink, swam to the opposite shore, disappeared in the woods—and it is still absent.—Hartford Courant.

A Pretty But Quaint Wedding.

The wedding of J Augusky of Allegheny and Miss Leah Zeigler of Philipsburg, occurred at the residence of the bride's parents last Sunday evening, in the presence of a large number of invited guests. The marriage took place under a canopy, held by four young men in the yard of Mr. Kyler, whose lot adjoins the Zeigler premises. The ceremony was conducted by Rabbi Miller, of Philipsburg, and was a quaint and original ceremony. It was after the manners and customs of the old Jewish rites, and caused quite a number of Gentiles to congregate about the place to witness the ceremony.

After the ceremony was performed the guest were invited into Mrs. Kyler's where a supper was prepared. There were present guests from Houtzdale, Osceola, Clearfield, Tyrone, Altoona, New York and Philadelphia.

FRANKLIN, Pa., June 13.—At 3.30 o'clock this afternoon a cloud burst in the oil field about two miles from this city, and the Two Mile run was so swollen that ten derricks were washed out, ttwo of them being carried directly across the Lake Shore railroad tracks. A high wind was also blowing and dozens of derricks wererazedto the ground. Only meagre reports arein from the field, but all other derricksare reported down. The loss to oil property will amount to about $10,000.

Driftwood Boy Missing.

A boy named Egler, of Driftwood, has been missing from home since last Saturday. He left for Medix Run to look for a stray cow. The last seen of him was at Cochran's camp. Searching parties, among them the entire force of the Driftwood tannery, have been looking for the missing lad, but up to Friday he had not been found.

Anyone who suffers from that terrible plague, Itching Piles, will appreciate the immediate relief and permanent cure that comes through the use of Doan's Ointment. It never fails.

WEATHER FORECASTS.

What Foster Has to Say About the Coming Conditions.

My last bulletin gave forecasts of the storm wave to cross the continent from June 8 to 12 and 13 to 17. The next disturbance will reach the Pacific coast about the 18th, cross the west of the Rockies country by the close of the 19th, great central valleys 20th, to 22d, and eastern states 23d. A warm wave will cross the west of the Rockies country about the 18th, the great central valleys 20th, and eastern states 23d. A cool wave will cross the west of the Rockies country about the 21st, great central valley 23d and eastern states the 25th. Rain showers in patches may be expected generally over the United States during the week ending June 11. Temperature of the week ending June 13 will average above normal and about the 18th an extended period of dry weather in the northern states will begin.

Progress in Victoria's Reign.

"When Victoria was called to the throne the United Kingdom contained 26,000,000 people," writes William George Jordan of "What Victoria Has Seen," reviewing, in the June Ladies Home Journal, the world's progress during the sixty years of the English sovereign's rule. "To-day it has over 39.000,000. The 'wise men, of the time said the nation would go to pieces. They claimed it could never govern its home and colonial possessions. Under Victoria the new territory acquired alone is one-sixth larger than all Europe, To-day Victoria rules over 402,514,000 people, or twenty-seven per cent. of the population of the globe. Her Empire extends over 11,399,316 square miles, covering twenty-one per cent. of the land of the world. The United States, at the time of Victoria's coronation, had only 17,000,000 people; to-day it has 70,000,000. Arkansas, Missouri and Louisiana were then Western frontier States. All our terrtory west of the Mississippi contained less people than Philadelphia has to-day. Our present trans-Mississippi population exceeds in number that of the whole country in 1837. Our territorial area has increased seventy-five per cent.; our National wealth has increased about seventeen hundred per cent.

Wintersteen's Bond Renewed.

BLOOMSBURG, June 14.—L. S. Wintersteen, the accused dynamiter, whose trial lasted three weeks, and resulted in the jury disagreeing and being discharged late Saturday night, appeared in court to-day, and renewed his bail in the sum of $7,000. E. B. Brower and F. P. Drinker became his sureties.

Clifton Knorr, who turned State's evidence, and said he was hired by Wintersteen to blow up Lawyer Waller's house, did not appear, as it was not necessary for him to renew his bail. He is simply awaiting sentence. Wintersteen is to appear for trial again at the September term of court.

Hospital Officers.

A meeting of the board of managers of the Lock Haven hospital was held saturday afternoon, in the office of Dr. R. B. Watson, at which the officers and superintendent were elected.

Dr. R. Armstrong was elected president of the hospital and Rev. Lewis Nichols secretary. Dr. R. B. Church was elected superintendent and matron of the hospital and Miss Arnold head nurse.

The work of fitting up the Myers' building for hospital purposes will be commenced soon, and the board of managers hope to have the hospital opened within a month.

One dose of Dr. Fowler's Ext. of Wild Strawberry will check any case of diarrhœa if taken at the start.

A Good Place to Stop.

The Passmore house, corner of Spruce and Front streets, Philipsburg, is one of the most popular hotels in that part of Centre county. The genial proprietor, Mr. James Passmore, has a cordial welcome for everyone who goes to his house, which is one of the largest and best equipped in the county. The table is supplied with the best the market affords. Bellefonter's who visit this popular resort will meet with such treatment as will make them feel perfectly at home.

Began Life as a Jockey.

LEXINGTON, Ky., June 11.—Byron McClelland, the well-known turfman, died at his home here at 8:15 this evening.

He was taken ill with malarial fever on June 5, during the Latonia meeting, and two days later was stricken with blindness. He was at once removed to his home in Lexington in a precarious condition, and medical aid proved unavailing.

McClelland was a horseman by birth and choice, and could ride a horse long before he could read or write. Born on a Kentucky stock farm, all his life was spent among horses, and there were few better judges of horseflesh. His career on the turf began when he was quite young. He accepted an offer from Maj. Henry T. Duncan, a figure in the Kentucky turf world a decade ago, to become a jockey in his stable. His first mount was Bourbon Belle, daughter of Bonnie Scotland, and dam of Hanover. He remained with Maj. Duncan five years, training and riding many crack horses of the day.

McClelland's work brought him into prominence and he accepted an engagement with Price McGrath, the owner of the famous McGrathian stud. When McGrath died he left the young trainer his colors, green and orange. Soon afterward McClelland bought a horse called Badge and branched out for himself. Then came the brightest period of his career, and his fame as an owner of winning horses spread throughout the sporting world. Among the famous horses he has owned are Sallie McClelland, Bermuda, Henry of Navarre, The Commoner, Caesarian, Prince Lief, Maceo, and other noted ones.

McClelland was about thirty-five years of age, and was reputed to be worth $300-000.

DANIEL MYERS,

OF PENNSYLVANIA.

A Living Object Lesson for Dr. Miles' New Heart Cure.

HEART DISEASE is curable. "For over forty years," writes Daniel Myers of Two Taverns, Pa., on Aug. 10, 1896, "I suffered with heart disease. First a slight palpitation, gradually growing worse. Then shortness of breath, sleeplessness, smothering sensations and much pain in the region of the heart alarmed me and I consulted a physician. Receiving no benefit I tried others and a number of remedies, spending a large amount of money, but finally became so bad that it was unsafe for me to leave home. I commenced using Dr. Miles' Heart Cure two years ago. For eighteen months I have been well. Although 72 years of age I can go where I wish and I sleep all night and wake up as cheerful as a babe and completely rested."

Another Baccalaureate Sermon.

PRINCETON, N. J., June 13.—Dr. Francis Landley Patton, president of Princeton university, preached the baccalaureate sermon to the members of the graduating class to-day. He regretted the attitude of England toward Greece, but he said Americans are not in a position to criticize when such a measure as the arbitration treaty has been rejected. President Patton went on to say that the universal sentiment in this country is absolutely in favor of the arbitration treaty.

Baseball Batting.

The ideal batter puts into his stroke, first, body motion; second, upper arm motion; third, forearm motion, and fourth, wrist motion. The stroke begins with a strong body swing, which is followed by the motions of the upper and fore arm respectively, and ends with a short, quick snap of the wrists. Although this is the analysis of the ideal stroke, it is not precisely the one that I would recommend for the majority of amateurs. To get all the motions to their full extent against good pitchers requires an ability to judge the ball more quickly and accurately than amateurs, with few exceptions, can do. The wrist and arm motions can be controlled more easily and quickly than the body swing, so that if most of the latter is left off the batter has a greater chance of judging the ball accurately. I therefore think, as accuracy is absolutely essential, that batters should be coached to use but little body swing. In other words they should be coached not to "slug" and try for home runs, but to meet the ball squarely for line singles When you see a batter, as I often have, strike at a ball, and from the force of the stroke be turned completely around, you have seen one who is guilty of two breaches of correct batting principles. First, having entirely sacrificed the important arm and wrist motions, he has, with stiff arms and wrists, depended entirely upon a powerful body swing. And, second, he has lost his balance and therefore all batting form. It will be well to bear in mind that against any pitcher a good, clean hit can be made, even without any body motion, if the ball be hit squarely and with a quick arm motion and snap of the wrists.—Harpers Round Table.

Fatal Flash of Lightning.

BELLAIRE, O., June 14.—Three young women were killed by lightning last night while returning from church at Jacobsburg. There names are Minnie McGuire; daughter of Rev. Thomas McGuire; Alpha Taylor, daughter of William Taylor, and Emma White, daughter of Simon White, all aged about 19 years. Sarah Bohring was badly stunned and may die. They were residents of Jacobsburg and were walking together in the road about 100 yards from the church when they were struck by the lightning.

It is believed that the corset steels worn by the three that were killed were the chief cause of their death, as Sarah Bohring, who was only stunned, wore none. Simon White, the father of Emma White, was walking about 25 feet behind the young women when they were struck, and he did not feel the shock. The three killed fell upon their faces, and Sarah Bohring fell against the fence.

A Whole Family Poisoned.

Frank J. Zimmerman, of the Adams Express company's office and his family, consisting of his wife and three daughters, had a serious time at an early hour yesterday morning. Saturday evening Mr. Zimmerman and his family were out visiting and about 9 o'clock their daughter, Stella was taken with cramps. She was given a home remedy when they reached their residence, and she appeared better.

Everything went well with the family until midnight when one of the girls was taken with nausea, and was given attention by her mother. Then the mother was seized with a similar attach and the other two daughters were soon likewise affected. Mr. Zimmerman jumped out of bed to go for a doctor, but before he could get out of the house, he, too became very ill. In spite of his sickness he called Dr. F. F. Castleberry.

The physician worked with the family until 3 o'clock yesterday morning before he was able to bring them around all right. The doctor diagnosed the case as arsenical poisoning, and a hunt was made for the cause. Everything the family had eaten during Saturday was taken into account and the only thing they could blame the trouble on was the strawberry shortcake they had partaken of at dinner time. They all remarked at the time that the berries in the cake had a peculiar flavor which they did not like, but which soon became palatable. One of the girls had cleaned the berries and on them found several small white worms. She also discovered some white powder. She washed the berries off four or five times, but did not say anything to her mother about it. It is presumed that the grower found worms on his berries and put some kind of a poison on them to kill the insects.

Mr. Zimmerman bought the berries of a farmer whose market stand is on Fourth street. He does not know the man's name, but knows his face. He thinks that if the berries had poison on them there must be others who were affected similarly to his family. If there is anyone who became ill from eating strawberries purchased on Saturday Mr. Zimmerman would like to compare notes and make it interesting for the farmer.—Williamsport Gazette & Bulletin.

GREEN'S PHARMACY

Centre County's Military in 1814.

In 1814 Bellefonte and Centre county had a military company composed of 56 members, with 58 muskets and one cartridge box. The company was officered by Captain William Patton, 1st Lieut. John D. Petrikin and 2nd Lieut. Joseph Green. Austin Curtin, James Curtin, Constance Curtin, Andrew Curtin, William Harris, Samuel Harris and James D. Harris, who have descendants living in Bellefonte, were privates in the company. It is said as soon as the British heard of the organization of the company they commenced the evacuation of the country.

A BRANT HOUSE ECHO.

The Proprietor of the Well Known Hostelry Ventures an Opinion.

Mr. H. C. Yeager is the popular host of the Brant House at corner of Allegheny and Bishop Streets. Complaining of his back one day to Mr. M. Cunningham, he of local and foreign pavement fame, "Mine Host" was advised to try the old Quaker remedy. He took the contractors advice and procured the first box of Doan's Kidney Pills at Greens's Pharmacy. This is what he has to say about it. "My Kidneys have been faulty for years. I have read a great deal about how the organs work, what is good for them and what is bad for them. Experience is a great teacher and I have had my share. A friend advised me to try Doan's Kidney Pills. I got a box. It helped me so much that I got a second and I am still useing them. It is rather a difficult job to cure a man whose blood is saturated with uric acid, who has rheumatism and urinary disorder due to weak kidneys and bladder and who has become a chronic victim. Still in spite of it all, Doan's Kidney Pills have helped me. I am much better in ever way and it is quite possible if I persist in the treatment as I intend doing I may be eventually cured. If I continue to progress as I have in the past that will be the ultimate end. I can recommend Doan's Kidney Pills for kidney trouble."

A Chapter on Colds

SIMPLE PREOAUTIONS THAT MAY PREVENT SERIOUS CONSEQUENCES.

The Danger of Neglecting a "Common Cold." Serious and Often Fatal Maladies may Result from Carelessness.

From the News, Harrisonburg, La.

In most instances colds are the result of imprudence or a lack of forethought. Even in cases where a sudden change in the weather or an unavoidable exposure is responsible for the first slight cold, fresh and more severe colds may be avoided by observing a little care. But "a mere cold" is such a common thing and causes so little inconvenience that notwithstanding all previous experiences we neglect to take the most simple precautions, in the way of wearing suitable clothing, the avoidance of draughts, etc.

One should always bear in mind the necessity of exercising a constant vigilance to avoid catching cold. When the temperature in the house is higher than that out of doors, never go out without putting on an additional wrap. Never sit in a cold room even though you do not feel chilly. And it is better to suffer a little discomfort from wearing heavy underclothing than to run the risk of a chill.

The following letter from a lady in Sicily Island, La., graphically illustrates the distressing consequences that are liable to follow a simple cold.

"In February, 1896, I had a severe cold which settled on my lungs, resulting in a serious cough. My appetite failed, and I became so weak that I was scarcely able to walk across the room. I weighed only ninety-four pounds, and had given up all hope of recovery when I happened to read an article in a newspaper describing some cures effected by Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and concluded to try them.

"I commenced using them, and before I had taken half a box I felt like a new creature. My appetite was restored, my cough grew less, and I was able to sleep soundly at night, which I had been unable to do for months before.

"After taking two boxes of the pills I was weighed again and to my astonishment my weight was 113 pounds, a gain of 19 pounds. Previous to taking the pills I had suffered with cold hands and feet, but now have no trouble whatever from that source.

"I can truly say I am now in better health than I have been for years. The effect of the Pink Pills is wonderful, and I can recommend them in all cases of debility and weakness.

MRS. A. L. STAFFORD."

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills contain, in a condensed form, all the elements necessary to give new life and richness to the blood and restore shattered nerves. They are an unfailing specific for such diseases as locomotor ataxia, partial paralysis, St. Vitus' dance, sciatica, neuralgia, rheumatism, nervous headache, the after effect of la grippe, palpitation of the heart, pale and sallow complexions, all forms of weakness either in male or female. Pink Pills are sold by all dealers, or will be sent post paid on receipt of price, 50 cents a box, or six boxes for $2.50 (they are never sold in bulk or by the 100), by addressing Dr. Williams' Medicine Company, Schenectady, N.Y.

Talks of Governments.

ROME, June 11.—The Observatore Romano published yesterday a long note, in which the pope explains and defines his views with reference to France.

His holiness disclaims all intention of recommending any preference for either the republican or the monarchical form of government, but, he observes, practice has shown that the interest of religion in any country are best served by loyal support of the constituted government, and he generally reproves those who, professing attachment to the holy see, sow the seeds of distrust and create difficulties by looking askance at our combatting particular existing governments.

The advice of his holiness concludes thus: "Moved by a constant affection for France and an abiding hope that with the allaying of passions His word will be heeded by all, the pope has no doubt that God will abundantly bless those who sacrifice their own predilections for the common good."

A Boy Bicycle Builder.

In the east end of Miles township there is a farmer's boy who may turn up some day as a mechanical genius. The little fellow seeing so many young men sporting on wheels, his fancy for a bike was aroused, but as a bike cost more than a good farm horse, the lad did not have a parental exchequer big enough to fall back on for such an investment. But a bicycle our little hero would have even if he had to build the machine himself. And that's just what he did.

He knew what the required parts were, and the wheels and axles, and bars, etc., were gathered up from cast off farm machinery, and with the aid of his native skill these were touched up mechanically until they would fit and set for a bicycle, and the boy was rewarded in a bicycle of his own make, and he could ride on it and had a right to feel prouder over his achievement than the fellow who rode a handsomer wheel from a big shop. This boy may yet turn out a master mechanic.—Centre Reporter.

The County Crops.

The fruit and crop prospect in our county is good. In the State College section the clover and wheat have a better appearance than usual and better than in some sections east of there. The farmers up that way have been liming freely and now are having a good stand of clover for once, which was an injurious lack felt upon Centre county farms for over 15 years.

Frosts have done no material harm to fruit or vegetation, and all signs are indicative of a bountiful harvest.

Exploring for a New Cave.

It has long been surmised that there was a cave commencing near the blue spring, on this side of Nittany mountain, running under the mountain and coming out in Penns Valley, on the other side, near a sawmill, as sawdust has frequently been seen on the water where the opening is supposed to be on this side of the mountain.

A party under the supervision of Geologist James Alexander, Esq., of Bellefonte, is preparing to open the mouth of the cave and explore it as far as possible. If the surmise should prove true the cave will be about four miles long.

At present the Lemont and Lewisburg railroad runs around the end of the mountain to Centre Hall a distance of 16 miles, while the distance across the mountain is only six miles. If the cave spoken of should turn out to exist it might be that a change of the line of the railroad would take place in the near future.—Williamsport Grit.

Committee to Meet Next Week.

Mr. Hammon Sechler, president of the Centre and Clinton County Business Men's Picnic Association, has been in communication with Mr. W. F. Elliot, of Lock Haven, secretary of the association, in reference to the coming picnic at Hecla Park.

Mr. Sechler says a meeting of the executive committee will be held at the park the latter part of this month, with the view of arranging details for the outing, which is to be held earlier in the season than it was last year. The date of the meeting of the committee will be announced later.

He Left a Will.

NEW YORK, June 11.—Joseph Richardson, the eccentric millionaire, who died in the "Spite house" in Upper Lexington avenue on Tuesday, left a will whereby he divided his fortune of $30,000,000 almost equally between his widow, his son and his daughter.

The body lay in a handsome casket. Within the casket was the coffin which Mr. Richardson had built for himself thirty-two years ago from the timber of a tree cut down by his orders at his farm in New England.

The undertakers discovered that the coffin was too small, and it was taken apart. The sides, top and bottom were screwed to the interior of the casket and the wishes of the deceased were carried out in that manner. The interment was made at Greenwood cemetery.

Distillery Destroyed.

The large distillery belonging to John Reish, at Cowan, a small village near Lewisburg, was burned to the ground Wednesday. The origin of the fire is not known. Twenty thousand gallons of whisky, stored in an adjoining warehouse, were also destroyed. The loss will reach $30,000, upon which there is no insurance.

—There will be a rally of the Royal Temperance Legion of Clinton county, at Clintondale Park, on Saturday, June 19th. The President of the State Legion will be in attendance.

DECLARED A DRAW

The Match at Fistcuffs Between Maher and Sharkey.

ENDED IN THE SECOND ROUND

Got Into the Ring When the Two Men Clinched and Created an Uproar by Arresting All the Big Bugs.

IT WAS A FIASCO ALL THROUGH

NEW YORK, June 9.—In the fight tonight Maher came into the ring wearing a black sweater and black trousers, while Sharkey was enveloped in a big yellow bath robe trimmed with blue. Maher wore black trunks with a green belt, and Sharkey green trunks with an American flag for a belt. Both men said they weighed 173 pounds.

Billy Brady announced before the men stripped that the agreement between the men and the referee was that in case of police interference if either man was in such a condition as not to have a chance to win in the opinion of the referee, the latter should give his decision in favor of the other man; but that if the referee saw that the man having the worst of the contest had a chance to win then he was to declare the bout a draw.

The men were announced to box twenty-five rounds at catch-weights. It was announced that the men had agreed to break clean and that they could box with either hand free. They shook hands at 10.26 o'cloc .

First Round—They sparred carefully for a minute, Sharkey holding his hands wide apart. Sharkey led for the stomach and missed. Maher landed light on the chest and Sharkey sent his left hand on the stomach and then swung his left on the chest. Sharkey tried a right swing, but was short. He tried a swing again for the body, but fell short once more. Sharkey, still on the aggressive, swung his right on the neck and they clinched. Maher jabbed his left in the wind and swung his right on the neck at the end of the round.

Third Round—Sharkey led a left but fell short and Maher crossed him with the right on the chest. Sharkey led a left, fell short, and then touched Maher on the nose with a right swing. Peter feinted frequently and tried to draw Sharkey out. Then he jabbed a left on the head and they exchanged left jabs on the face. Both men were careful, but Sharkey left himself very open whenever he stepped back.

Fourth Round—Sharkey swung his left on the shoulder and jabbed the same fist on the stomach. Maher countered on the head when they exchanged rights and [illegible] Sharkey put a light left jab on the face and they were sparring when the bell rang.

Fifth Round—Peter fiddled a good deal and landed a left jab on the mouth, and Sharkey jabbed his left on the stomach. Sharkey swung a right on the stomach and Maher crossed his left on the face. Just then Sharkey said; "Why don't you cut your moustache off," and jabbed his left in the wind. Then he jabbed right and left on the face. During this round there were cries of "fight, fight," which showed that some of those present did not want such boxing.

Sixth Round—There was a long spell of fiddling and dancing around. Sharkey tried to get Maher into a neutral corner. Sharkey led a left for the stomach and fell short. Maher jabbed a left on the chest and Sharkey swung a right on the head. Peter led a left for the face but fell short and then Sharkey sent a straight right on the mouth, which put Maher down, and he fell half through the ropes, where he remained fully six seconds His mouth was bleeding when he got up and the bell rung ten seconds later.

Seventh Round—First blood for Sharkey in the last round sent his stock up, and Maher's face wore a worried look when he came to the scratch in this round. Peter fell short on a left lead for the face, and Sharkey swung left and right on face and head. Sharkey swung right on ribs and jabbed his left in the stomach. Maher clinched and they broke away clean. Maher rushed and put a right and a left swing on the face, and they clinched. After a breakaway Maher swung a left on face and a right on the jaw, which sent Sharkey on his back at the ropes. When Sharkey arose the men clinched, and were in that position when the gong sounded. Maher was using right hand sending uppercuts on the face and body, and did not break when the gong sounded. When they did break one of Maher's seconds rushed over to take Maher to his corner, when Sharkey turned and punched the second on the nose. There were cries of "foul" while Maher and Sharkey were clinched at the call of time, but the police jumped into the ring and created an uproar by arresting the principals, seconds and the referee. The bout was declare a draw.

Lutherans in Session.

MANSFIELD, O., June 9.—As fast as the delegates to the thirty-eighth biennial session of the General Synod of the Lutheran church poured into the city this morning the probable result of the election of a synodical president was taken up in conversational discussion. While there is no apparent rivalry, the advocates of the several candidates are strongly urging the election of their men Rev. M. W. Hamma, of Altoona, Pa., was the first candidate to arrive. He refused to discuss the probabilities of his election. The strength of the candidacy of Rev. Dr. Rhodes, of St. Louis, greatly increased this morning with the arrival of more delegates and he was freely spoken of as a "formidable" candidate.

Secretary Rev. Dr. W. S. Freas, of York, Pa., has announced by letter that he will not be a candidate for re-election, which virtually insures the election of Rev. Dr. W. H. Dunbar, of Baltimore, Md., who is so far the only candidate for the office.

The work to be done by the Synod will simply be routine. There being no doctrinal dissensions throughout the entire church, there are no matters of such purport to be brought before the Synod.

The opening service was held this evening. About 250 delegates were present. Rev. Dr. H. Louis Baugher, of Gettysburg, the President of the Synod, delivered a sermon. He was followed by S. G. Cummins, Esq., a prominent attorney, who delivered an address of welcome on behalf of the Lutheran churches of the city. Ex-Representative H. C. Hedges warmly and heartily extended the hospitality of Mansfield to the Synodical delegates.

At the conclusion of his address the service was turned into a general handshaking.

Silverites Meet.

CHICAGO, June 9.—Thirty-two states were represented at the first meeting of the provisional committee of the National Silver Republican party here yesterday. Pennsylvania was in line.

Resolutions were adopted favoring the immediate establishment of Bimetalism by the independent action of the United States through the free coinage, both of silver and gold at the ratio of sixteen to one, and the clothing of both metals equally with every attribute of full money with the right to every debtor to choose which coin shall be the basis of payment.

The resolutions also recommended the appointment of a National Executive Committee of seven, which shall be authorized to call a National Convention of the National Silver Republican party.

Bank Cases Being Tried.

HOLLIDAYSBURG, Pa., June [illegible].—The trials of the 225 Gardner, Morrow & Co. bank suits on Tuesday resulted in a drawn battle between the depositors and the bankers. In the suit instituted by the Altoona bank to recover indebtedness contracted after the death of James Gardner, the moneyed partner in the bank, the plaintiffs accepted a voluntary nonsuit. The plaintiffs were unable to prove that the Gardner heirs had participated in the management of the bank. Deposits aggregating $225,000 are thus lost.

Edward Hair was awarded a verdict for $3,775.70 for deposits made in Judge Gardner's time. This test suit decides claims for $100,000.

The defendants are pleading the statute of limitation against many claims.

"1876 Climax."

Is the name of a superior quality of Brandy, placed on the market by the Speer N. J., Wine Co., as a companion to their Superior Old Port Grape Wine.

This Old Brandy is a pure distillation from the grape and stands unrivalled. It is considered by eminent medical men far superior to most the French Brandies for medicinal purposes, and is preferred by them to other Brandies on account of its known purity. Sold by Druggists.

AT THE GENTZEL MANSION.

Elaborate Entertainment in Honor of the Head of the Family.

Mr. Benjamin J. Gentzel was 43 years old a short time ago, and his wife and daughter gave him a birthday party on Tuesday evening, June 8. The were some 30 in attendance, including the Undine band, of which Mr. Gentzel is a member. After a delightful band concert had been rendered the guests were royally banqueted, the excellent menu having been prepared by Mrs. Gentzel and her daughter, Nora Bella. After supper there was more music, and dancing. The following ladies, and gentlemen besides those of the immediate family added grace and mirth to the occasion: Clara Gentzel, Leah Lingle, Rosa Armbuster, and Bella Gentzel. Louis Doll, Pike Waltz, Joe Mack and Fred Smith were also mirth producers of the occasion. After a visit to the deer park, the guests unanimously voted thanks to the ladies of the house for the superb entertainment.

Mr. and Mrs. Gentzel and their accomplished and pretty daughter, are among the most popular entertainers in this part of the State. They reside on their farm near this place, and where they have a deer park, and a sumptuously furnished residence. The family is descended from old time Centre county farmers, all members of the same were born here, and since the marriage of the elders all have been remarkably prosperous in tilling the soil. They are noted for their generous hospitality throughout the county. Mr. Gentzel is a noted musician and a leading member of the celebrated Undine band, and his wife and daughter are musicians of merit as well as excellent house keepers.—Williamsport Grit.

Burned to Death.

WILKESBARRE, June 11.—Captain J. Reynolds and John Kyler, of Espy, Pa., were burned to death, and Maurice Reynolds was fatally burned on the Susquehanna at Pittston to-night. A dredge was being being used by the Spring Brook Water company in erecting a filter. The men went to bed in the cabin at 10 o'clock and soon after a fire broe out in the boiler room. To get on deck they had to run through the boiler room and only Maurice Reynolds lived through the firey ordeal. He was rescued by a boat from the shore but was badly burned. He cannot recover. The dredge burned to the water's edge and sank.

Americans at the Jubilee.

LONDON, June 11.—Ambassador Hay gave a dinner this evening in honor of Whitelaw Reid, special ambassador of the United States to the Jubilee. Most of the guests were Americans, the company, including Andrew Carnegie and Chauncey M. Depew. To-day Sir William Colville, the Queen's master of ceremonies, called on Mr. Reid, as did also Lord Wolsley, the commander in chief, and other prominent men. The Queen has appointed Col. Henry Hallam Parr as special equerry to Mr. Reid during his stay here as special ambassador.

—There will be a fourth of July celebration at Philipsburg.

Lutheran Synod.

MANSFIELD, O., June 11.—The Lutheran synod got down to business to-day and as soon as the opening services of the morning were over, began the raising of $10,000 to cover a deficit that has been troubling the board of home missions for the past year. It took almost the entire morning session and part of the afternoon session, but the task was finally accomplished. The afternoon session was devoted to speeches on home mission work.

Rev. Dr. W. E. Parson, of Washington, president of the board of trustees of the National Lutheran Home for the Aged at Washington, submitted the board's report. The report showed that the present accommodations of the home are so limited that the erection of another building is necessary.

The synod appointed Cornelius Eckhardt, of Washington, to act as attorney for the synod in the sale of ten acres of land in Washington, the proceeds to be used to erect another building.

General Secretary Rev. Dr. A. Stewart Hartman, of Baltimore, delivered the fourteenth biennial report of the board of home missions. The financial report showed a deficiency of $10,000 in the treasury of the board.

D. K. Ramey, of Altoona, Pa., the oldest layman in the synod, started a movement to remove this deficiency by a subscription of $500. The synod increased this to $4,436 by personal subscriptions and assumed the remaining $5,000 indebtedness.

Posioffice Burglarized.

Milton, June 11.—The Milton postoffice was burglarized at an early hour this morning, an entrance being effected through one of the side windows.

The big safe in the office was blown open and everything of value in the outer compartments taken. Most of the cash was kept in an inner compartment of the safe, and thus was saved, although the robbers had nearly succeeded in drilling through the heavy door. They were not disturbed at their work and were likely driven away by the approach of daylight.

The charge was exploded about half past three o'clock, as it was distinctly heard by several persons living in the neighborhood. The authorities were not aware of the burglary until the office was opened this morning and the robbers have no doubt made good their escape.

The people at the postoffice cannot tell how much is taken until they strike a balance, but they think about $150 in stamps and cash is missing.

Held a Conference.

PHILADELPHIA, June 11.—United States Senators Quay and Penrose arrived here to-day from Washington and to-night held a conference with a number of state officials over the revenue and appropriation bills to be considered in the legislature. Those at the conference were Senators McCarral and Grady, Auditor General Mylin and State Treasurer Haywood. The difference of $3,800,000 between the two bills was talked over, but nothing was decided upon. It was decided to hold another conference in Harrisburg in the course of a few days.

—J. D. Long was appointed postmaster at Spring Mills, this county, on Wednesday.

MUCH TALK, LITTLE WORK

How the Lower Branches of the Legislature Gets Along.

A QUESTION OF CLUBS COMES UP

They are Presumed to Be of a Political or Social Nature and the Measure of Taxing Them Is Laid Over.

LITTLE WAS DONE YESTERDAY

HARRISBURG, June 10.—The first half of the morning session of the house was spent in wrangling over a bill taxing bicycles for road purposes. The measure also taxes tricycles and pleasure carriages $1 a year and traction engines $3. The bill passed second reading as it was reported from the ways and means committee.

Mr. Smith of Philadelphia, attacked the bill taxing political and social clubs, and then it was defeated by a vote of 95 to 48. A bill correcting the constitutional defects in the direct inheritance tax was introduced by Mr. Marshall, of Allegheny. Five minutes later Mr. Keyser, of Philadelphia, reported it from the ways and means committee, and the bill passed first reading. The measure is practically the same as that declared unconstitutional by Judge Hanna, except that it taxes all estates and is retroactive. Mr. Marshall says the bill will raise $2,000,000 a year. The pool bill also passed first reading. The remainder of the morning session was devoted to the consideration of senate bills on first and second reading.

The bill taxing political and social clubs was reconsidered at the afternoon session and laid aside for the present. There was much talk and little work at this session. A half hour was spent in trying to amend the senate bill for the inspection of meat shipped into the state from other states. Numerous amendments were offered, but the bill went through second reading in the form it passed the senate.

Mr. Stewart, of Philadelphia, called up the conference on the fish bill and a half hour was spent by the clerk in reading the measure, after which it was adopted.

Mr. Bliss of Delaware, called up postponed senate bills requiring political conventions and cancuses to be held in the district in which the delegates were elected. After wasting a half hour in filibustering on the bill, the yeas and nays were called on the motion to proceed to its consideration. The roll call disclosed no quorum, many members refusing to vote, and a motion to adjourn until 8 o'clock was made and carried.

The order of business for to-morrow in the house was reported to-night by the rules committee and adopted. Revenue bills on second reading will be first considered, and then bills on third reading and original resolutions. Bills on first reading, revenue bills on second and third reading, and house bills on second reading will be the order for Monday's session. The house did little else than talk at the evening session. The bills under consideration were of no great interest, but every body seemed to have a desire to be heard

The bills authorizing county commissioners to appoint a clerk and fix his salary, to prohibit the peddling, hawking or selling of merchandise, ware or other goods without a license, and relating to actions of ejectment and making one verdict and judgment conclusive where the real estate does not exceed $5,000 in value were defeated. Senate bill authorizing property owners of any street or any town or village not incorporated to enter into contract with light companies for lighting said street or water companies for furnishing water for fire protection and to provide for the expense by an assessment upon the abutting property owners, which was defeated at the afternoon session was reconsidered and passed second reading.

A bill amending the act of May 11, 1893, to enable borough councils to establish boards of health, to allow councils of boroughs containing not more than 10,000 inhabitants to combine compatible offices, passed finally. The Boger bill increasing the punishment for repeating at elections from three months imprisonment to five years was defeated by 101 to 33, less than a majorirty voting. The bill authorizing the clerk of quarter sessions court in Philadelphia to designate a German newspaper in which applications for liquor licenses in that city shall be published passed finally.

The house adjourned at 10.05 until 10 o'clock to-morrow morning.

Hay Twenty-six Years Old.

The Potter county Democrat says that a Chenango county, N. Y., farmer is feeding out hay this spring that was put in the mow twenty-six years ago. This is the first year that the mow has been reduced low enough to bring the old hay in sight. It is said to be as bright and in as good condition as hay only a year or two old.

W. C. T. U. Festival.

The festival held by the ladies of the W. C. T. U. on the porch of the residence of John P. Harris, Thursday evening, was a success in every particular. The porch was well lighted up with electric lights and the tables were all beautifully decorated with flowers. There was a large attendance and the people were very generously waited on by some of the finest young ladies of our town. The W. C. T. U., is to be congratulated on the grand success of their efforts. They took in over $32.00 in money. The REPUBLICAN office owes its thanks to the ladies for a handsome cake. Well we didn't do a thing to that cake.

Burglars' Mistake Costs Dearly.

Wooster, O., June 9.—This morning Elias Harding Henry Straits, Charles Firck and Sandy Coppard of Akron, indicted for robbing the country residence of W. V. Knox, near Apple creek, all pleaded guilty. Coppard was sentenced to four years to the penitentiary, Elias Harding four years, Charles Fink four years and Henry Straits two years. Their arrest was brought about by John Washe, keeper of the city prison. Mrs. Lowe, a neighbor of the Knox family, while on a visit in Akron last winter, said that her husband had no faith in banks and kept their money at home. The wife of one of the four heard the remark, and the men rode fifty miles and walked ten to commit the job, but got into the wrong house.

Base-Ball at Milesburg.

A very interesting game of ball took place Thursday, June 10th between the High-School of this place and the Milesburg team. The game consisted of seven very interesting innings and a very brotherly spirit was shown throughout the entire game. The score was 9 to 7 in favor of High School. Keichline and Otto were battery for our boys and Boggs and Campbell for Milesburg.

—Thursday evening the Coleville band chanced off a very handsome lamp at their band room in Coleville. It had been on exhibition for some time past in the window of Wilkinson's China Hall. The chances were one cent each and were drawn out of the hat by Joseph Mack. The lucky number which took the prize was 2339 and was held by Mrs. James Rote, of Coleville.

At Philipsburg Next Year.

The annual encampment of the Sons of Veterans will be held next year at Philipsburg. Lebanon, South Bethlehem and Hazleton wanted the encampment but Philipsburg received the most votes.

Officers were elected as follows: Division commander, Willsure Scott, of Milton; senior vice commander, A. S. Moulthrop, DuBois; junior vice, W. H. Wise, of Philadelphia; division counsel, F. W. Culberson, of Lewistown, Bowers, of Philadelphia, and Fisher, of Harrisburg.

Will Be a Pleasant Outing.

Mr. William Hepburn of Jersey Shore will start out with his gypsy wagon about the middle of this month, accompanied by fifteen of his friends, both ladies and gentlemen. They will be absent two or three weeks going from Jersey Shore to Williamsport, Muncy, Milton, Lewisburg, Bellefonte, and home via Nittany Valley and Lock Haven.

Activity Along Nelson Run.

Nelson Run, a small stream flowing into the Sinnemahoning between Costello and Wharton, is the centre of considerable activity these days. nearly a thousand woodsmen are in their might. About 45,000 cords of bark will be peeled there this season. Two or three hundred Italians are engaged in constructing tram roads.

—Mrs. Elizabeth Beck, of Burnsid township, Clearfield county, who came to this country from Germany, in 1832, celebrated the one-hundredth anniversary of her life on Wednesday of last week. There were seven hundred guest at her home and the old lady was one of the most active among them.

Another Railroad Rumor.

It is rumored that the Beech Creek road has secured the Pennsylvania Midland, which was to go through Bedford, Blair and Somerset counties, and will finish building the road.

A Town That Can Give Some Points on Hills—An Interesting Article But a Trifle Sarcastic.

ITS PEOPLE, POLITICS AND TROUT

It is sometimes a good thing to see ourselves as others see us; for this reason we republish, for the benefit of our readers, the interesting article from Thursday's Pittsburg Times on Bellefonte. It is from the versatile pen of John B. Dampman, a staff correspondent of the Times, who was sent here on a special mission:

Bellefonte is in the centre of Centre county. Centre county is in the centre of Pennsylvania, and Pennsylvania is the Keystone State of the Union. That makes Bellefonte very central, and if you are there and want to go anywhere else you have to travel a long distance. There are lots of people there who do want to get away, too; who want to get out from the centre to the periphery, as it were. They want offices in Harrisburg, or Washington, or any old place, and they get them. They know how to get them better than any people in the country. Bellefonte was built up the Bald Eagle valley on purpose, so that people could easily find the way out, and, of course, people always find the way in by that route, too.

The bald eagle that started the valley has been shot and hung up on a barn door, but the valley is still there. It has hills on each side of it and farms in the middle. Some farms are on the hills and some hills on the farms. The hills are handsomely decorated at this season, so that travelers going to Bellefonte will not notice so much the length of the way and the loiterings of the train. There are pink hills and white hills, and yellow hills and green hills, and hills of assorted colors, and there is one strawberry colored hill in particular that would just now take the first prize in an international flower show. The hills are mostly as nicely rounded off as if they had been made to order, and on the whole, the sight of them is good for the eyes. On the farms everything is green, except the cows, the farmers, the cornfields and the stumps, and the grass looks so good that the passenger on the train envies Nebuchadnezzar's appetite and wonders why the cows give yellow butter.

But the valley does not monopolize all the hills. There are plenty left for Bellefonte, at the end of the route. The Bellefonters are fond of saying that the town is built on seven hills like Rome. But they are too modest by far. The town has 77 hills. She can "see" Rome and go her 70 better, and besides that, one was taken away to make room for the big spring. The court house is built in a hole in a hill and the jail is built on top of a hill, just to show that the way of the transgressor is steep. But the saints go to the tops of the hills, too, for the graveyards are there, and the epitaphs show that none but good people sleep in them. All the churches are on hills, and the only brewery is at the foot of a hill, while the beer is cooled in a cavern under a hill. In the winter everybody slides down hill. Some of the streets nearly stand on end and the paving blocks fall out in windy weather. Then, besides hills to build on, the town has lots of hills just to look at. Big, high, steep hills that look so hard to climb they do not mind the smaller ones they have to meander over in going to the store or the lodge.

It has been stated by some that Bellefonte was founded by P. Gray Meek. But though, from time whereof the memory of man runneth not to the contrary, Meek has always been a delegate in the front row at Democratic conventions, the best authorities agree that the town was there before him. Even before the railroad, Meek, as well as many of his fellow citizens, would manage to break out whenever there was anything going on in politics, for on politics Bellefonte is unsurpassed and her output of statesmen has been and is immense.

On all the streets their homes are pointed out to you, and wherever you go you encounter men who are expecting to be Governors and Congressmen and Senators, and perhaps Presidents. You see a man slouching along in a pair of overalls, an apparently inconspicuous citizen of the Commonwealth, but go to a State convention and you will see the same individual, in his store clothes, directing the course of empire and claiming to be the mouthpiece of the sovereign people. The man in a $50 suit slaps the man in overalls on the back and calls him Jack or Jim, well knowing that he may need his assistance some day in politics. If a hen roost is robbed the victim hesitates to proceed against the offender lest he should turn up as a Nemesis at the primaries, and he accepts a present loss of chickens rather than a prospective loss of votes. The confidence which every one feels in his great future gives an air of repose to the town and to the people. They do not need to hurry and rush and discompose themselves when they know that they will all some day get a good office and be fixed for life.

One of the great attractions of Bellefonte, besides the residences of its Governor and ex Governors and miscellaneous statesmen, is its big spring. Everybody who sees it is expected to say that it is the biggest spring he ever saw. It is reported that a misguided individual once upon a time said that it wasn't much of a spring, and that his body was afterward found horribly mutilated at the bottom of a stone quarry. The coroner's jury found that his death was caused by temporary aberation of mind. The spring is a big one. It pours out enough water for all the people of Bellefonte, with enough left over for Allegheny city. It would pretty nearly keep the Monongahela river in business if it should lose all the rest of its water. We suspect that it isn't a spring at all, but just a river that got mixed up among the hills when the country was made. It has a filtering plant somewhere under the hill, for it comes out clear, and the people who drink it do not have to take in any real estate.

Another great attraction of the town is its trout. They live right in the borough limits. The old inhabitants tell how they used to be so plentiful that they would bite vigorously at a tenpenny nail, and how you could see them jumping at flies of an evening from the court house steps. Though that day has gone by, they are still very plentiful and a veracious inhabitant is authority for the story that he still supplies his table by fishing out of his kitchen window, while the trainmen are said to keep themselves well supplied by trolling from the rear platform. This week the story was told of the catching of a 17-inch whopper from the railroad station platform.

There are few towns indeed where there are so many things that are pleasant to look at and wonder at. Its people are given a little to boasting, but they have cause for it, and that they are sincere in their belief is shown by the fact that whatever greatness and honors they may achieve on the outside they always come back to Bellefonte to live and enjoy themselves whenever their outside mission is fulfilled.

FUNERAL OF WILLIAM JONES.

Buried With Military Honors Under the Charge of Gregg Post.

Friday afternoon at 4 o'clock the funeral of the late William Jones took place from the Episcopal church on Allegheny street, and the last sad tribute of respect was paid to him by his friends and comrades. The funeral was a large one, the church being filled to the doors long before the hour for the service to begin. It was under the direction of Gregg Post, of which the deceased was a member for many years. At the church the services were conducted by Rev. R. E. Wright, the rector, and were very solemn and affecting. The floral offerings were profuse and beautiful. At the close of the church service, the funeral procession slowly wended its way to the city of the dead. The procession was headed by the Undine band, followed by carriages containing the ministers and pall-bearers. Then came Co. B. 5th Reg't. N. G. P., Gregg Post, No. 95, G. A. R. and more carriages containing relatives and friends.

Solemn services were held at the grave and were participated in by Rev. Wright. Commander David Bartley, Chaplain James Harris, and others. The pall-bearers were Hon. James P. Coburn, John P. Harris, Thomas Donachy, Dr. Geo. F. Harris, M. Montgomery, S. B. Miller, Monroe Armor and Herman Miller.

Tossed on the Foaming Billows

You may never have been, but if you cross the Atlantic, no matter how smooth the watery expanse, without sea sickness you are—well, a lucky voyager, that is all. Old tars who have spent their lives on the ocean waves, who were almost born, so to speak, with their "sea legs on," suffer now and then with sea sickness in very tempestuous weather. Sea captains, tourists, commercial travelers and yatchsmen say that there is no finer safe guard against nausea than Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, and it has been equally reliable as a preventive by invalids who travel by steamboat and railroad, and who sometimes suffer as much in those conveyances as ocean travelers do in steamships. Biliousness, constipation, sick headache and disorders of the stomach caused by oppressive climatic influences or unwholesome or unaccustomed food or water, always yield to the Bitters speedily. This popular medicine also remedies rheumatic, kidney and nervous disorders, and the infirmaties incident to increasing years.

Fire Works Exploded.

CHICAGO, June 8.—A match carelessly dropped by one of the workmen in the fire works factory of M. Shure, at the corner of West Van Buren and Halstead streets, caused a terrific explosion a few minutes after 6 o'clock to-night. A number of the employes were badly hurt and the flying rockets and candles struck several people who were passing in street cars and on the sidewalks. All told twenty-six persons were injured, some of them quite severely.

The force of the explosion was so great that nearly all the windows in the block were demolished. Immediately following the explosion the building was ablaze from cellar to roof and was almost entirely destroyed by the fire. The loss on the building and contents is estimated at $60,000.

A Nose Party.

A nose party is the latest. Holes are cut in a sheet, large enough to admit a good-sized nose. Half of the party got behind it, and for a moment there was a varying assortment of probicides on exhibition, ranging from turn-up pug to the needle pointed creation searcher. The outside party selected the noses and the owner thereof was his partner for the evening. It was a solemn occasion.

Grabbed the Ghost.

WINCHESTER, O., June 11.—The mystery of a ghost haunting the old graveyard and the residence of Jas. Williamson, six miles north of this city, was satisfactorily solved by a posse last night, divided up in squads of two and three, covering every possible point. About 11 o'clock the apparition appeared near where Samuel Wilson was standing, and almost instantly it sank to the ground. Wilson threw himself upon the figure, striking it wherever he could with a club which he had for the occasion. Loud cries came from the supposed ghost, and when an examination was made it was found that the ghost was none other than Frank Johnson, Wilson's nearest neighbor, whereupon the posse tied him to a sapling, and under switches made him explain why he had, for the last year, terrorized the community. He said that he had been trying to buy Williamson's farm, which adjoins his, and by using the ghost scheme thought he could scare him into selling it at a sacrifice. After his explanation he was given twenty lashes and warned to leave the neighborhood. Johnson is a wealthy farmer.

On A Lynching Bill.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., June 10.—A special from Montgomery, Ala., says: Governor Johnston received a telegram this morning from Sheriff Fulghom, of Huntsville, Al., stating that a mob of 200 men had captured a freight train at Decatur last night and started to Huntsville to lynch he two Decatur negroes, Lewis Moore and Claude Neville, who are charged with criminally assaulting Nellie Lawton, white aged 13, and sent to Huntsville for safe keeping. The train was side-tracked at Green Brier.

Governor Johnston ordered the Huntsville company to report to the sheriff under arms to protect the jail from any mob Two thousand rounds of ammunition was ordered to be sent from Birmingham on the noon train, and the governor has telegraphed the colonel of the Second regiment to hold one of the Birmingham companies in readiness to go to Huntsville at a moment's notice. At 11 o'clock Governor Johnston wired the sheriff to protect the prisoners at all hazards, and he would give him all the troops necessary.

Deafness Cannot be Cured

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness. and that is by constitutional remedies, Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube gets inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing and when it is entirely closed deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

His Ashes for Security.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 7.—A sensation was sprung by counsel for the contestants in the Davis will case to-day, when it was shown that the ashes of the deceased millionaire, over whose property his heirs are now wrangling, are being held by Undertaker Schuyler, of Philadelphia, as security for the sum of $800, the value of the casket in which the remains reposed before being cremated, as well as for the process of embalming.

It is contended by the other side, however, that the ashes only remain in the custody of the undertaker because no one has any authority to take charge of them.

That Dynamite Conspiracy Case.

BLOOMSBURG, Pa., June 11.—In the Wintersteen-Knorr dynamite conspiracy case the taking of testimony was closed at 10 o'clock this morning.

James Scarlet then opened the argument for the prosecution and occupied the attention of the jury and court the balance of the morning. He was followed by Fred Ikeler in the opening, and J. H. Jacobs in the closing for the defense and George S. Graham, of Philadelphia, will close the prosecution.

Each speaker will be granted two hours in which to address the jury. Judge Ermentrout will deliver his address to the jury to-morrow and the case will then go to the jury.

COMMENCEMENT WEEK

At the State College—Baccalaureate Sermon by Dr. Colfelt.

The thirty-seventh annual commencement of Pennsylvania State College began on Sunday with the preaching of the baccalaureate sermon by Rev. Dr. L. M. Colfelt, the college preacher and professor of ethics. Taken as a whole it was one of the most notable commencement sermons ever preached at this institution, characteristic both of the futures of the class of 35 graduates and the present condition of the times. Dr. Colfelt took for his text Gen. xlv, 24: "So he sent his brethren away and they departed; and he said unto them, 'See that ye fall not out by the way.'"

The program for the week includes the class exercises Monday morning, the inter-class athletic contests in the afternoon and the Junior oratorical contests in the evening.

Tuesday was the biggest day of the week, it being the day for the meeting of the alumni, the annual meeting of the trustees, the alumni dinner, etc., and the address before the alumni in the evening, which was delivered by Hon. M. J. S. McCarrell, speaker of the senate.

Wednesday was graduation day, when the commencement address was made by Gov. Hastings and the diplomas presented to the class of 35 graduates, the largest in the history of the college.

Those of the class who took first honors are Thomas Baumgardner, Ermin F. Hill, Chas. W. Lawrence, Robert M. McKinley, Jos. W Miller. Second honors: John M. Dom. John T. Harris, Edward H. Myers, Wm. H. Teas, Wm. M. Whitten.

The valedictorian selected for the class is Ermin F. Hill, of Hughesville, Lycoming county.

'Twas Childrens Day.

'Twas Childrens Day yesterday and several pleasing programmes were rendered by the different Sunday Schools in honor of that fact. At the Presbyterian church the services were held at 10:30 a. m., and were presided over by J. W. Gephart Esq. the superintendent of the Sunday School. The church was very beautifully adorned with cut flowers and potted plants and presented a very beautiful appearance. A large choir was present and rendered some very fine music which was highly appreciated by the large audience present. Dr. Laurie gave an earnest talk which was brimful of sound advice for the young folks. The services held in the Methodist church to celebrate this great day. among all young people and older ones as well, was enjoyed to it's utmost, which enjoyment was earnestly shown by the way all took part in the singing. The church was very beautifully decorated a large audience was present.
